OTTAWA INQUIRES INTO PROVINCES' FINANCES

New Avenues Sought To Effect Union

Reluctance Shown To Drop Coalition Objective For B.C.

Private Conservative Members May Present New Plan to Unite

R. Randolph Bruce's Name Is Mentioned

Another Offer With More Favorable Terms May Be Made to Liberal Leader

Rejection by T. D. Pattullo, Liberal leader, of Premier Tolmie's invitation to join with him in the formation of a union government has proved to be far from the final chapter in the discussion on the subject. Talk of effecting a union from other angles was the main topic of conversation at the Parliament Buildings yesterday and to-day.

It was apparent this morning that many private members on the government side of the House are in no way prepared to drop negotiations as the result of the failure of their leader to arrive at terms with Mr. Pattullo. Many possibilities are discussed.

PRIVATE MEMBERS MAY ASK

One is that private members will ask matters in their own hands and approach Mr. Pattullo regarding their leaders on the treasury benches.

In view of Premier Tolmie's statement that he thought neither Mr. Pattullo nor he could get a majority in the next Legislature, there is considerable talk as to whether Premier Tolmie will retire from the leadership of his party.

In this event Hon. R. W. Bruhn, Hon. L. Maitland and J. W. Berry, Delta, are mentioned as those who may possibly step into his shoes.

Another persistent report is that the name of Hon. Randolph Bruce, former Lieutenant-Governor, was freely mentioned at a caucus of private Conservative members yesterday to help in the negotiations for a union government. Mr. Bruce may either be asked by Premier Tolmie to help him form a union or may be approached by private members.

RENEW OFFER

Another report is that more favorable terms may be offered to Mr. Pattullo at the insistence of private Conservative members. The speech of A. Manson, K.C., in the Legislature yesterday is noted in this connection.

Mr. Manson emphasized the unreasonableness of leaders of the government who had been responsible for much of the criticism leveled against the administration seeking protection under union government. He also noted the feeling of discontent against the leaders which private members had shown during the summer and at the present session.

Premier Tolmie's answer to Mr. Pattullo's refusal was made public yesterday. "I have your favor of even date, which I must interpret as your definite refusal to accept the principle of union government with me," he said, "and I am carrying on the affairs of the province during the present crisis," as Premier Tolmie's reply.

RELIEF PLAN TO CONTINUE

Federal Government Continues Paying One-third Direct Relief in Municipalities

Pending negotiation of a new tri-partite agreement on distribution of unemployment relief costs, the existing system of sharing direct relief in municipalities will be continued, Hon. R. W. Bruhn, Minister of Public Works, announced this morning. The federal and provincial governments will each pay one-third of costs incurred by municipalities for direct relief to married residents and their families. The arrangement for sharing expenditures in unorganized territories will also be undisturbed for the time being, Mr. Bruhn stated.

The existing system of payments was arranged by the Dominion Government last year, and would have expired on Friday, March 31.

Extension of the present basis results from agreement by Hon. W. A. Gordon, Dominion Minister of Labor, to extend

U.S. EMBASSY IN MEXICO STONED

Group of Radicals Objects to J. Daniels as New United States Ambassador

Mexico City, March 29.—Stoning of the United States embassy here last Friday evening as a protest to the appointment of Joseph Daniels as United States Ambassador to Mexico has been disclosed. Several windows were broken.

Police had not made the incident public and it was not known to-day if arrests resulted.

Posters calling on "all anti-imperialists" to force Mr. Daniels from Mexico appeared in the city bearing the signature: "The Central Committee of the Communist Party of Mexico." Others called him "the murderer of Azuela and Uribe." Mexicans killed when United States forces landed in Veracruz in 1914 while Mr. Daniels was secretary of the navy.

Sweep Bill Is Sent For Third Reading

Measure For Hospital Lotteries Approved By Private Bills Committee of Senate; Not Debated Yet By Commons

Ottawa, March 29.—The bill authorizing the holding of hospital sweepstakes in Canada was approved by the Senate committee on private bills to-day. The measure is sponsored by Senator A. D. McEwen, Conservative, Vancouver.

The bill as approved by the committee changes the original name of the measure from "Charity sweepstakes" to "Hospital Sweepstakes." The alteration would permit the Attorney-General of any province to issue a certificate for sweepstakes once during the calendar year for the benefit of one or more hospitals within that province.

OTTAWA CONSIDERS NEW COAL PLANS

Ottawa, March 29.—Representatives of British Columbia, Saskatchewan and Nova Scotia were greeted with the Prime Minister and other members of the government to-day in discussion of ways and means of stimulating the use of Canadian soft coal. It was understood the discussions centered about the proposal advanced by these coal-producing provinces some time ago, involving a zoning of territories in the Dominion and permitting the importation of competing coals into such zones only by license.

Alternative measures were believed to have been advanced in the meantime. The zoning suggestion was the subject of exhaustive study by the Dominion Fuel Board, and it is understood, the finding was not very favorable.

The newspaper also warned members of the present government:

"You are playing not only with the last resources of our people, but you are risking also your heads and your lives."

Government Is Sending Official To Make Report On B.C. and Prairie Affairs

BANK STAFF ROUTS THUGS

Manager of Branch at Ilderton, Ont., Critically Wounded During Exchange of Bullets

Canadian Press

Ilderton, Ont., March 29.—Two employees of the Canadian Bank of Commerce were wounded in a gun battle with two bandits when an attempt was made to hold up the bank's branch here to-day. After exchanges of shots, the bandits fled in a car without any money.

H. M. Porteous, manager of the branch, was seriously injured by a bullet in the stomach, and Lloyd Denning, assistant in the bank, was wounded in the shoulder by a spent bullet.

The two robbers drove up to the bank in an automobile and on entering flourished their guns and ordered the two employees to "stick 'em up!"

Instead of complying, Mr. Porteous reached for his gun and the bandits immediately opened fire.

After an exchange of shots, the gunmen ran from the bank without loot.

The condition of Mr. Porteous was pronounced critical and he was taken to London, Ontario, by ambulance.

EXPECTED TO BE U.S. ENVOY TO BERLIN

During the debate recently in the Commons at Ottawa on the Unemployment Relief Act, members mentioned the aid given provinces by the federal government. Some criticism was voiced of the advancing of Dominion funds for ordinary running expenses of provinces, in distinction to advances of money for unemployment relief purposes.

UNEXPECTED BUT WELCOME

When informed of the inquiry by the Comptroller of the Treasury, Hon. J. W. Jones, Minister of Finance of British Columbia, said: "I do not know anything about Mr. Sellar's visiting Victoria, but I am very glad to hear he is coming. His visit may be to ascertain our needs for the coming year."

Front Benchers In Debate In Commons

Mr. Stevens spoke first. The address of the Minister of Trade was a general defence of the Bennett Government's trade and fiscal policies. For an hour and a half he replied to the criticism of the Rhodes budget voiced last week by Hon. J. L. Ralston, financial critic for the Liberals. Canada's export business, said the Trade Minister, was holding up well from a volume angle. He said it was not for to apply the dollar yardstick to exports and imports in this day of low prices.

TALKS OF EXPORTS
"It," he said, "is sending out to the markets of the world a quantity of Canadian products reasonably commensurate with what we sent before, then I think we can claim our trade is not in a bad state." Since 1923 Canada had increased its exports $17,300,000 to nine countries, including the United Kingdom, Australia, Spain and the Netherlands, he said. To the United Kingdom, Canada had increased the export volume of twenty-five or thirty commodities, including wheat, oats, canned fruits, sugar, tobacco, beef and ham, cheese, poultry, planks and boards and square timber.

The fall in Canadian exports in 1932, based on 1930 prices and compared with that year was only five per cent, continued Mr. Stevens. "That, I think, is substantial evidence of the extent to which we are maintaining our trade abroad." And all the time, Canada trade was swinging on a wire. "Unquestionably we are gradually seeing the results of the Imperial Conference proposals and agreements of last summer," he said.

By opposing the Rhodes budget as a whole, continued Mr. Stevens, the Liberals were opposing the reduction of the pound for duty purposes, the agricultural stabilization fund, the reduction of the tariff on thirty items, the increase in the income tax, the adjustment of the sales tax, the sugar tax and the tax on bonds held outside Canada.

GRIM SATISFACTION
"Our picture," said Mr. Stevens, "at this time may not be particularly rosy, but as a people, one nation among many, I think we as Canadians can claim the right of looking back over the past year with at least some degree of satisfaction, even if it is grim satisfaction, and look to the future with a great deal of confidence."

IN WHEAT MARKET
Replying to opposition charges that in aiding wheat hedging the administration had thrown money away, Mr. Stevens said the operations of the government in the wheat market had not caused the loss of a single dollar as yet and there was a distinct possibility the government's holdings might be wholly liquidated without loss.

The transaction was not gambling in any sense, said Mr. Stevens, and it was not the wheat market that would have collapsed much more and

LONDON DEBT STAGE IS SET

Important Action Expected From MacDonald-Davis U.S. Discussion To-morrow

London, March 29.—Question of a final settlement of the war debt owed the United States against the British Government, the chief business before the British Government.

The subject was up for discussion at the arrival to-night of Norman H. Davis, who has been named special ambassador for the United States in Europe by President Roosevelt.

Important action was expected in Parliamentary circles to result from the discussions between Mr. Davis and the government chiefs. The latter seek a settlement that will obviate the necessity of reviving German reparations, now scaled down 80 per cent under the Lausanne agreement, which is conditional on a similar adjustment with the United States on war debts.

REPORTS DENIED
Reports emanating from abroad that two cabinet members had been appointed to handle the debt question were denied in authoritative quarters.

Latest reports from Ambassador Sir Ronald Lindsay, who has been carrying on preliminary conversations with President Roosevelt, and Secretary of State Hull, envisaged some time in April as the earliest a debt commission would open a conference in Washington.

Mr. MacDonald has arranged to have a conference with Mr. Davis to-morrow morning.

The United States representative will arrive in London late to-night from Plymouth.

FRENCH DEBATE

Paris, March 29.—The government is seeking to delay parliamentary discussion of the 1930 debt instalment due the United States last December, as negotiations with Washington may proceed unhampered.

Design Minister Paul Boncour is expected to ask the foreign affairs committee of the Chamber of Deputies to postpone discussion of the problem for several weeks inasmuch as the government believes debate would be hampered under the present circumstances.

Edouard Herriot, chairman of the committee, is expected to accede.

He has ever expressed his own opposition to the resolution recently introduced by Deputy Rene Richard calling for payment of the $19,000,000 in instalments.

Paul Boncour told the cabinet.

SANITY TEST FOR MAN IN ROME

Police Question Citizen Who Said He Planned to Kill Mussolini

Rome, March 29.—Police were conducting an investigation to-day to determine whether a man charged with seeking to assassinate Premier Benito Mussolini had an accomplice.

The name of the prisoner was not disclosed.

One of the statements in an alleged confession, police said, indicated he had a foreigner for an accomplice. He was alone when arrested, March 20, at the Premier's palace, with a revolver in his pocket.

Police said he admitted intending to shoot Signor Mussolini when the latter left his office. The general belief seemed to be the man was mentally unbalanced. He was reported to have originally planned to shoot Premier Mussolini at Cella, March 16, but was prevented by the Italian government of Great Britain there, but later decided to make the attempt in Rome.

Commission Which Investigated Machray Shortages Recommends Fourteen Members in Place of Nine

Winnipeg, March 29.—Following are highlights of the Turgeon report, covering the Royal Commission's investigation of the defalcations of the nearly $1,000,000 in University of Manitoba trust funds, tabled to-day in the Legislature here.

It is recommended the board of governors of the university be enlarged from nine to fourteen members, three elected by the graduates of the university.

It is also recommended no member of the board should have financial interests in the administration of university affairs.

BLAME PLACED
John A. Machray, K.C., former chairman of the university board of governors and bursar, and the late R. H. Shanks are named as the men guilty of the $1,000,000 theft.

Machray, whose law and investment firm handled the trust funds, is now serving a seven-year penitentiary sentence. Shanks, who died in April, 1932, was chief accountant for the firm. Machray was accepted by the system which enabled Machray to carry on his defalcations in charged against the board of governors and Robert Shanks, controller-general of Manitoba.

The report also states that the board failed to secure an audit of university funds from 1925 to 1932. During that period $900,000 was taken by Machray.

REPORTS NOT ASKED
The government and its members are given a clean sheet on a number of issues investigated. They failed, however, the report says, to obtain the annual report on the university investments as called for by the University Act. Hon. R. A. Hoey, Minister of Education, made no effort from 1925 to have the board of governors submit proper audited reports, it is stated.

Denial that F. J. Sharpe, partner of Machray, had knowledge of the fraudulent practices was accepted by the commission. Mr. Justice R. M. Denison, a former member of the firm, was exonerated.

Losses to the university total $601,175, representing thirteen trust and loan funds. Total shortage against the university is $1,000,000.

The commission found the appointment of Machray to the board of governors in 1917 was an improper one while he was under suspension.

No blame is attached to Dr. J. A. McLean, president of the University of Manitoba.

The report shows a great degree of blame was fastened by the commission on members of the board after 1924, the year in which Isaac Pitblado, K.C., resigned as chairman. There was no doubt, the report states, that had he remained as chairman, Machray and his chief accountant would have found it impossible to evade the statutory audit to 1929.

In any subsequent year dealing with the guilt of Machray and Shanks, the report says: "We wish to make it clear at once that, wherever any guilt is implied or involved, that guilt comes home only to two men, Machray and Shanks."

Premier John Bracken is exonerated of responsibility and it was shown he had no knowledge of the defalcations until July, 1932.

Since he entered the Stony Mountain Penitentiary, near Winnipeg, to serve his ten-year sentence imposed last September 22, Machray has been suffering from cancer.

He has been confined to the hospital ward since his admission.

ILLINOIS TOWN CALLS ON TROOPS

Zeigler, Ill., March 29.—An air of suppressed excitement prevailed in this coal-mining city of fewer than 4,000 inhabitants to-day as word was awaited to the outcome of Mayor C. N. Smith's appeal to Governor Henry Horner for state troops to preserve peace and order.

Meanwhile, deputies from the Franklin County sheriff's office were in control of the situation as they replaced local officers and patrolled the streets. Sheriff Browning Robinson declared local authorities were no longer able to cope with the situation as he sent his men to the city.

"Like the other instances of mine troubles, authorities said, the local situation was prompted by attempts of the Progressive Miners' Union to wrest control of the mines from the old United Mine Workers' Union.

REFUNDING LOAN SET FOR FALL

New York, March 29.—Loan operations by the Canadian Government in the New York market during 1933 are likely to be restricted to refunding of a $50,000,000 loan maturing here October 1, according to views entertained in well informed banking circles. Study of the budget speech delivered last night by Hon. R. M. Mackenzie, Minister of Finance, indicates the Dominion will resort to internal borrowing for refunding of $50,000,000 due August 1 and $100,000,000 due November 1. There are no important maturities of Dominion guaranteed railroad obligations this year.

The Gistmans are charged with carrying offensive weapons for a purpose dangerous to the public peace. One was found to be in possession of a revolver and the other had an automatic.

Robert Mulholland, twenty-three, of Powell Street, was arrested in connection with the burglary at the Wong service station on East Pender Street on Sunday night, when a cash was stolen. He is charged with breaking and entering.

DEPORTATION RULING Is Upheld By Court

Non-Canadian Prisoners May Be Ordered Deported As Was Verigin, Says Supreme Court of Canada

Canadian Press
Ottawa, March 29.—A convict, other than a Canadian, liable by his offence to be deported, continues to be subject to deportation even if his sentence expires during the term of his sentence under a judgment rendered in the Supreme Court of Canada to-day.

An act of clemency in releasing a convict from prison prior to the completion of the term of his sentence may be valid and effective in law without the consent of the convict, according to the ruling.

The unanimous opinion of the Supreme Court was handed down early this afternoon by Chief Justice Lyman D. Duff on the reference as to the effect of the exercise by the Governor-General of the royal prerogative of mercy in deportation cases.

VERIGIN CASE
The reference was made to the court by the Governor-in-Council following the decision of Mr. Justice Humphrey Mellish of the Nova Scotia Supreme Court against deportation of Peter Verigin, spiritual and temporal leader of the Doukhobors in Canada. Verigin was sentenced last May by a Saskatchewan judge to the Prince Albert jail for a term of eighteen months for perjury. After serving one-half of his sentence, he was released and was about to board a Halifax for Russia under deportation proceedings when proceedings were started which resulted in Mr. Justice Mellish's decision.

ANOTHER PLEA FOR HOSPITAL

Conservative Member Asks Finance Minister to Reconsider Grant Cut

The plea which other medical men sitting in the British Columbia Legislature have voiced for a reconsideration of the budget proposal to cut hospital grants was endorsed by Dr. C. M. Kingston, Conservative, Grand Forks, during the budget debate yesterday.

Dr. Kingston pointed out the Vancouver General Hospital would suffer to the extent between $75,000 and $80,000, and the Royal Jubilee Hospital in Victoria to the extent of about $25,000. He urged the Minister of Finance to consider if it were not possible to cut some other grant that was not vital to the health and lives of the people of British Columbia and restore the hospital grants. Dr. Kingston mentioned in this connection the grant for the Department of Health, and remarked the preservation of game should not be weighed against the preservation of the lives of the people of the province. Hospitals, he said, were an essential part of present civilization, and how, he asked, could they carry on in the face of the cuts.

The member thought sweepstakes would not solve the problem unless many tickets could be sold outside the province, but was not averse to giving them a trial.

Turning to other matters, Dr. Kingston thought unemployed in camps would prefer work to idleness. With 400 men in camps in the district he thought it an opportune time to have work done on the Hope-Princeton highway.

He praised the work done by the provincial Board of Health, and defended the appointment of welfare officers in connection with mothers' pensions.

RUBBER FIRM IS FIFTY YEARS OLD

Gutta Percha Anniversary Commemorated By Unveiling Ceremony

The fiftieth anniversary of the establishment of the rubber industry in Upper Canada was commemorated in a brief ceremony at the Gutta Percha and Rubber Limited plant, 1000 Avenue Parkdale, Toronto, recently, when His Excellency the Earl of Darnley unveiled a tablet on the original factory building.

The Governor-General paid tribute to the growth of the industry and to the particular founder organization. He placed emphasis on the important place that the rubber industry held in the domestic and export life of the Dominion. He took a keen interest in the complete manufacturing processes during an inspection of the plant.

A welcome was extended to His Excellency by Fred A. Warren, president, who pointed out that fifty years carried back close to a time when the steam railway began to supersede the stage coach. Parkdale was only a small village when the plant was opened. "In all modesty therefore," said Mr. Warren, "we consider that it is something of an achievement in the industry to be celebrating our fiftieth anniversary."

A special tribute was paid to the old employees of the firm—men who had been with the company for twenty-five years and more. They formed in a separate group of eighty-four before the unveiling ceremony.

More than half the staff had been with the company for ten years and more, it was stated. A trade affiliation with New Zealand of thirty-two years' standing, with new a written contract between us," was cited as a source of satisfaction to the directorate.

LEGISLATOR IS NAMED JUDGE

G. Taylor, Manitoba Conservative Leader, Goes to King's Court Bench

Ottawa, March 29.—Lieut.-Col. F. G. Taylor, K.C., will be a judge of the Court of King's Bench of Manitoba, in order-in-council appointing him signed yesterday by the Governor-General.

The appointment is to the vacancy created by the resignation of Mr. Justice A. C. Galt, which was received last week.

Mr. Justice Galt, who celebrated his eightieth birthday last week, resigned because of ill-health.

For a number of years Mr. Taylor has been Conservative leader in Manitoba, and will resign his seat in the Legislature for Portage la Prairie.

Mr. Taylor was born fifty-five years ago at Meadow Lea, Manitoba. He served as an alderman of Portage la Prairie for three years and as mayor for three years, resigning in 1915 to join the Canadian Expeditionary Force. He served in France with the 1st C.M.B. Battalion from August 3, 1916, till October 16, 1918, with the rank of major. He was awarded the D.S.O. in June, 1917.

He was first elected to the Manitoba Legislature in 1920, and was chosen as Conservative leader in April, 1922.

Before their marriage Mrs. Taylor was Miss Mabel Agnes Dykeman of Portage la Prairie.

WILL DRAFT BILL

Ottawa, March 29.—Law officers of the crown are studying the new authority given the Canadian Parliament as a consequence of the Statute of Westminster. Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Justice, so informed the House of Commons yesterday afternoon. It was expected a bill with a number of clauses embodying the territorial and other rights given to Parliament would be brought down this session, he said. In the measure would probably be included a provision abolishing appeals to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council in London in criminal cases.

Welsh By-election Is Won By Labor

Port, Wales, March 29.—Labor retained the East Rhondda riding in a three-cornered by-election contest. W. H. Mainwaring secured 14,127 votes in the polling yesterday, against 11,228 for A. Horner, Communist, and 7,481 for William David Thomas, Liberal.

Death of Lieut.-Col. Watts-Morgan necessitated the by-election. He had represented East Rhondda since 1918, and was chairman of the Welsh Labor party.

In the 1931 election labor polled 23,083 against 10,359 for the Communist candidate.

FRUIT ACT DISCUSSION

Ottawa, March 29 (Canadian Press).—The question as to whether or not any amendments to the Fruit Marketing Act will be introduced at the present session of Parliament was under consideration. This was the reply given in the Commons yesterday by Hon. Robert Weir, Minister of Agriculture, to W. A. Fraser, Liberal, Northumberland, Ontario.

Alderman Luney Voted For Cut

Through a transposition of names, Alderman Walter Luney was reported in The Times yesterday as voting against the motion in the City Council meeting Monday to reduce aldermanic indemnities ten per cent. Alderman Luney's name should have been in the list of those voting for the motion. During the debate on the resolution, Alderman Luney made the remark that it was immaterial to him whether there were indemnities or not and passed the comment that it was rather a joke to call them "salaries" because it was nothing more than pocket money.

MANSON JOINS IN UNION OPPOSITION

Premier Tolmie had admitted in August, by his declaration for union government, that his administration was not competent to handle affairs. Why did he not recognize at once and still give allegiance to the Conservative party? He admitted his cabinet was too large yet he had gone from August until March and had done nothing but drift. Now, those who had pleaded guilty to incompetence talked of a coalition and asked to be considered in the formation of another government. Was that reasonable, Mr. Manson asked.

COURAGEOUS LEADER
"A strong government is what the province needs," said Mr. Manson. "The first requisite is a strong leader. A strong leader must be a man of integrity, fearlessness and courage, a man who in the face of a crisis is not afraid. From a man of judgment, a man who was not so narrow that he could only see the immediate present, a man who could stand up under stress and strain, a man who could give his colleagues absolute loyalty from them. Such a man should gather a group of colleagues like himself. He should not be concerned with the political now and the political yesterday, but should think in terms of progress."

"We feel," proceeded Mr. Manson, "we have chosen wisely in our present leader. He is a brave and experienced departmental administrator. He is a bonny fighter as the Minister without Portfolio has described him. He is a man of decision and he is not afraid. He is a man of courage and we are at a crisis where we must choose somebody with such qualifications. This government cannot carry on."

LACK OF DIRECTION
Mr. Manson said the present administration had suffered from lack of direction. There had been no organized business before seeing what the Dominion Government's policy was to be and then found the government had not the money to put men in them. "Was there ever such evidence of mismanagement and profligacy?" the speaker asked. "Now he speaks of a union government—any umbrella to take him in and preserve him from the fate he deserves."

FINANCE MINISTER UNDER FIRE
Mr. Manson launched into a criticism of the finance minister's government which he detailed to prove his claim that world conditions alone could not be blamed for the financial condition of the province found itself in. The Minister of Finance before seeing what the Dominion Government's policy was to be and then found the government had not the money to put men in them.

Mr. Manson said that while fish must be gutted and iced immediately after being caught, or landed at a cannery within twenty-four hours after being caught, no time limit was set in the regulation as to how long the fish could lay on the cannery floor before being canned. The canners were not in favor of the regulation, claimed Mr. Hanna. Many of them did not believe the regulation was necessary. All a canner wanted was fish in good condition and of good quality.

Fishermen were entitled to first consideration and if the government does not take a firm stand on the matter they will be acting in the interests of a few and not the people as a whole. He would like to know the attitude of Hon. S. F. Howe, Commissioner of Fisheries. It was Mr. Howe's duty to come out into the open and let the fishermen know where he stood in the matter.

Dr. G. K. MacNaughton, Conservative, Comox, adjourned the debate.

GRAIN RATES CRITICIZED

Neill Tells Commons Rail Levies on Feed to B.C. on Wrong Basis

Ottawa, March 29.—A bill sponsored by Thomas Reid, Liberal, New Westminster, which contemplated empowering the Railway Commission to establish a rate of 10¢ per ton for the carriage of "fair and reasonable" provided that such were in the national interest, was defeated in the Commons yesterday evening. The vote was 85 to 34. The vote was non-party, and a number of Liberals voted against the proposed measure.

Argument against the bill, advanced by W. J. Loucks, Conservative, Roseau, Sask., was that any such power would rapidly result in the privately-owned railway of Canada coming to the government, requesting the Dominion make good its deficit.

Mr. Reid protested against personal attacks which had, he said, been made against him by H. J. Barber, Conservative, Fraser Valley. It seemed strange, said Mr. Reid, that Mr. Barber could not "lift himself above this political stuff." He wondered how in his arguments Mr. Barber had omitted Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways.

Mr. Reid argued the Duncan commis-

NEW BREWERY IN ALBERTA PLANNED

Calgary, March 29.—If the Alberta government grants a license to operate, the United Brewery Limited, a British Columbia concern, will construct a $500,000 brewery on the outskirts of Calgary, according to Anthony Neils, head of the company.

The question of granting such a license, it is stated here, involves the whole matter of beer distribution in Alberta. At present distribution is controlled by Distributors Limited, but if the license is granted the British Columbia firm the government may take over all distribution with its revenue, which would bolster the administration's finances.

HANNA AGAINST SALMON ORDER

Two Thousand Fishermen Protest, Alberni Member Tells Legislature

L. A. Hanna, Liberal, Alberni, in the Legislature yesterday afternoon, strongly supported the motion of Jack Louet, Conservative, North Vancouver, asking the British Columbia Legislature to protest against an order-in-council passed by the Dominion Government on February 3 last, providing that grade A canned salmon must have been landed fresh at a cannery for canning within twenty-four hours after being caught, excepting fish that has been gutted and iced immediately after being caught.

Mr. Hanna reviewed the fishing regulations that had been in effect prior to the Privy Council decision giving the province effectual control of fishery. Last session, he claimed, the Legislature had surrendered some of its jurisdiction to the Ottawa government.

In February the objection to regulation was brought down without notice having been given to the fishermen.

Mr. Hanna claimed that the federal Minister of Fisheries, or his deputy, usually visited the Pacific Coast when new regulations were contemplated and consulted both fishermen and canners. Last fall the deputy minister came out and held conferences with those engaged in the industry. This regulation had not been discussed and came as a complete surprise to the fishermen, over 2,000 of whom had petitioned for its recall.

Mr. Hanna said that while fish must be gutted and iced immediately after being caught, or landed at a cannery within twenty-four hours after being caught, no time limit was set in the regulation as to how long the fish could lay on the cannery floor before being canned. The canners were not in favor of the regulation, claimed Mr. Hanna. Many of them did not believe the regulation was necessary. All a canner wanted was fish in good condition and of good quality.

Fishermen were entitled to first consideration and if the government does not take a firm stand on the matter they will be acting in the interests of a few and not the people as a whole. He would like to know the attitude of Hon. S. F. Howe, Commissioner of Fisheries. It was Mr. Howe's duty to come out into the open and let the fishermen know where he stood in the matter.

Dr. G. K. MacNaughton, Conservative, Comox, adjourned the debate.

CONVICT IS TO BE SENTENCED

Canadian Press
Winnipeg, March 29.—William Gorda, Stony Mountain penitentiary inmate, yesterday was found guilty by a jury in the assize court here of occasioning grievous bodily harm to Thomas Clayton, chief guard, last April. He was remanded for sentence by Mr. Justice A. K. Dyar.

Gorda, evidence showed, attacked Clayton with a stone hammer and partially blinded him. Another convict, Thomas Jones, attacked Alfred Fisher, another guard, at the same time. During the disturbance that followed, Jones and Gorda were wounded, and Mike Bekun, a convict who had no part in the trouble, was killed by shots fired by guards.

U.S. Civil Service Salaries Are Cut

Washington, March 29.—President Franklin Roosevelt yesterday evening ordered a 15 per cent cut in the salaries of United States government employees, effective April 1.

This action was taken under provisions of the recent emergency economy act which authorizes the President to reduce salaries by a maximum of 15 per cent in order to aid in balancing the budget.

FORMER CRICKETER DIES

London, March 29.—L. C. H. Palairet, sixty-three, well-known cricketer and runner in his youth, died yesterday in a test series against Australia in 1892, paired with H. T. Hewitt. Palairet made a first-wicket stand of 346 runs. This broke the existing record.

MR. PATTULLO WANTS ELECTORS TO DECIDE

Mr. Pattullo's rejection of Dr. Tolmie's latest invitation to unite with him under the present Premier's leadership was a foregone conclusion. How could it be otherwise? The opposition leader already was on record in correspondence, statements in the Legislature and other public pronouncements, against the proposal, which originally was made to him formally six months ago. In every case he gave his reasons for his attitude and these have been unanswerable. Premier Tolmie has had the leadership of the House for more than four years, with three-fourths of the members behind him. He has the power to put through any measures he or his government sees fit without difficulty, and this power has been exercised. Mr. Jones' budgets, for example, have gone through precisely as they were submitted, in spite of the opposition of the handful of members under Mr. Pattullo's command. Indeed, few governments anywhere have had so complete a control of the voting strength of parliaments or legislatures as that of Dr. Tolmie.

What measures could a union government, under Dr. Tolmie's leadership, put through that could not be put through by the present big majority in the House under the same leadership? What does the Premier propose should be done? To this there has been no answer. Obviously, in all of these circumstances, Mr. Pattullo is entitled to conclude that what the government really wants is to be put back into office under a leadership which admits its own inadequacy, not to speak of the inadequacy of its party, and which he himself for more than four years has criticized as being inadequate. How could he honestly unite with a government under a leadership which he has opposed as inadequate and which formally and publicly concedes that his opposition in that respect is well founded? On this point the government, the opposition and the public generally are in agreement, however else they may differ.

Apart from these obvious considerations, however, there is a larger and fundamentally more important principle involved, and that is the right of the electorate to determine what kind of a government it should have. Mr. Pattullo is on sound constitutional ground in insisting that every interest and element among the electors should have an opportunity of taking part in that determination, and in refusing to be a party to any expedient or programme devised in a corner with the object of deciding in advance the sort of representation British Columbia will have in its next House. This, as he very properly points out, is a matter for the electors, not for a few politicians in James Bay. He ignores, with every good reason, the suggestion of the possibility that the next Legislature might be composed of numerous groups which would make adequate government difficult. We have only two political groups now, the government has an overwhelming majority, and yet its leader says it can not govern. Under existing conditions we would be no worse off if we had half a dozen groups. That, however, is only stage thunder, and ought to be disregarded.

The Premier's reference to the union government formed at Ottawa in 1917 is scarcely pertinent to the present situation in this province. That government was formed for a specific war purpose—to enforce conscription. Dr. Tolmie is scarcely correct in saying that after that government had accomplished its purpose "the country" resumed party government. What actually happened was that the government, without any reference to the electorate, which had authorized it, caulked itself into a Conservative ministry under the leadership of Mr. Meighen, and the following year went to the country under that party flag. And that, precisely, is what some of the promoters of a superficial union in this province would hope to do if Mr. Pattullo were foolish enough to associate himself with this proposal, incidentally sacrificing his own self-respect.

In this province we have representative government. That being so, we suggest that the Premier's proper course is to put his problem up to the electors in an early election, as the opposition leader advises.

C.N.R. MET ADVERSE CONDITIONS WITH GOOD EFFECT

The annual report of the Canadian National Railways, compiled by acting-President S. J. Hungerford and tabled in the House of Commons the other day by Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways and Canals, shows that the system reduced its operating expenses by $44,104,834 in 1932, its net operating revenue being $5,985,433, or $4,703,266 greater than in 1931, although, of course, there was a decrease in the gross revenue of $39,401,567 as compared with 1931. It should be noted, however, that taxes amounted to $5,204,948 and there were other income account debits of $4,732,124, largely increased in 1932 by the necessity of paying heavy discount on Canadian funds in the United States. The interest on the funded debt in the hands of the public was $56,965,278 and this interest charge, plus other income account debits, gave the system a net income deficit for the year of $61,006,919 exclusive of interest on government loans. This net income deficit in 1932 represented an increase of only $137,124 over 1931. Mr. Hungerford states that the result was made possible by the loyalty and continuing efforts of all concerned to secure the maximum of economy.

Close budgetary control of capital expenditures and operating expenses, additional scrutiny of expenditures by the finance committee of the directors, and reduction in working capital made it possible to keep the total cash requirements of the system within the budgeted estimate as presented to Parliament, despite the fact that the revenues of the system declined as compared with the previous year. The report then goes on:

The year 1932 witnessed a continuance of the world's great economic depression. The revenues of the railways, in common with those of other enterprises throughout the world, suffered such severe declines that the most strenuous efforts were required to cope with the situation. Since 1926, when an all-time peak in railway revenues in this country was touched, the trend of railway earnings has been steadily downward. In 1932 Canadian National Railways gross revenues on the all-inclusive system showed a decline of $13,053,640 from 1928. In 1930 the decline from the previous year amounted to $48,284,281; 1931 saw a decline of $50,462,939 from 1930, and in 1932 the decline was $39,401,567 as compared with 1931. The total receipts in 1932 was $161,105,594 as compared with $172,286,031 in 1931. A decrease of $11,180,437 or forty-eight per cent. For every dollar which the Canadian National received in 1932, it received only fifty-two cents in 1931. To meet the situation, economies have been effected through the elimination of unprofitable services, the reduction and reorganization of the supervisory staff, closing of stations and office buildings, laying off a large number of employees, including many previously carried on part-time, and by such other measures as could be made effective without bearing too heavily upon the communities served. At the present time the staff is approximately thirty-one per cent below the 1929 level. The total payroll, on the other hand, is thirty-nine per cent below the 1929 figure. The average number of employees and amount of compensation they received, from 1929 to 1932 inclusive, is as follows:

Year	Average No. of Employees	Compensation
1929	111,383	$177,037,682
1930	101,046	159,980,994
1931	91,416	139,784,430
1932	76,916	108,911,808

As Mr. Hungerford very properly emphasizes, however, when the general output of business sets in—and there are signs that governments are going to co-operate to speed the turn—the Canadian National system "will show, in increased net earnings and income, its power of recovery." Meanwhile, The Times contends, it is suffering like every other railway system in the world from a reduced demand for services, brought about in no small measure by the mad tariff war in which all nations have indulged, but which nations now are beginning to realize the magnitude and costliness of their economic folly.

NO FORM OF TRAVEL IMMUNE FROM ACCIDENT

The tragic disaster which befell the British Imperial Airways liner in Belgium yesterday with the loss of fifteen lives and a similar tragedy which caused thirteen fatalities in Oakland last Saturday may suggest to the sceptics, those who see little in the idea of becoming air-minded, that much yet remains to be done to make flying safe.

These tragedies are to be deplored; but they have no more relationship to the safety of travel than the much more frequent railway and marine disasters. Crashes from the air perhaps impart a greater measure of horror to the mind because of the helplessness of those who are dashed to the earth. But what notice, for instance, do the passengers of a railway train get of an impending collision? Shipping disasters, of course, are so comparatively frequent that they are regarded as more or less inevitable.

One of the amazing things about air travel—still really only in its infancy—is not that there are the occasional crashes with fatal results, but that they have not been very much more frequent. Aerial travel on this continent, particularly in the United States, is taken just as much for granted as it is in Europe, which for several years has maintained an extensive network of lines. Airmen and aircraft manufacturers have indeed established a fine reputation. Bad accidents are few and far between.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

IF THERE WERE NO BOOKS.
 London Correspondent of New York Times Book Review

"It is a mistake to assume that books have come to stay. The human race did without them for thousands of years and may decide to do without them again." This startling prediction comes not from any Philistine lowbrow, but from one of our most accomplished literary artists, E. M. Forster. He observes that the radio and cinema are turning us from readers into listeners and lookers, and he wonders whether this tendency will lead Mr. Forster regards the prospect of a bookless world as a deplorable one, for books, he says, have an educational value which nothing yet invented will supply. No one is educated who cannot concentrate, and it is easier to learn concentration through a book than through a talk or a film, for an obvious reason. If your attention wanders, you can go back to the top of the page and start again, whereas in a talk or a film you are carried on. So he concludes that he has little faith in the educational future of broadcasting—unaided, and he trusts in the movies still less. Microphone and screen will both be helpful as long as they are subsidiary only, and are combined with books and refer us to books. They can indicate, but they cannot rub anything in, and in twenty-four hours all they leave behind is a blur.

TRIBUTE TO CANADA The Christian Science Monitor

Canada looks back upon 1932 with pride. The nation retained world leadership in the export of wheat, printing paper, asbestos; was second in gold, platinum, cobalt; was third in wheat flour; fourth in automobiles and wood pulp; fifth in rubber tires. There have been troubles, but they are being surmounted. Canada is a huge country, with only about 10,000,000 population—but the Canadians are an exceedingly hardy handful.

Across The Bay

Things of consequence continue to happen—without result so far as we can see—Mr. Manson says some unkind words much against his will—Mr. Loughheed makes no apology—and the budget debate staggers on.

By H. B. W.

COMINGS, GOINGS

THINGS OF CONSEQUENCE were happening in the House and outside the House and at Dr. Tolmie's House all Tuesday, but we couldn't penetrate the general fog to find out what they were. There were comings and goings from morning to night. Plenipotentiary Extraordinary Howe and Pooley disappeared and reappeared after conferences with their leader, the third of the Triumvirate which is forming the new union government, if any. Mr. Pattullo sat in the House and read in the newspapers his rejection of the Premier's invitation. And finally Mr. Manson made an impassioned speech denouncing the whole union government programme.

You can make what you like of these occurrences on what was certainly one of the most hectic days in the history of provincial politics. Most likely you will be able to make more of them by the time this is printed than we can now, for this situation changes from hour to hour. At one moment one thing is bound to happen and the members of the House are going to follow a certain course unto death. An hour later they are going to do something else entirely and had never considered the other thing at all.

So we closed the House Tuesday, but not the aged and senile budget debate, without knowing where we were going from here. Everybody watched the old Tolmie come in Cloverdale, where the Premier lay ill, but from it came no sound, only letters to Mr. Pattullo, which added nothing to our knowledge and apparently nothing to the success of union.

NO SMILE

WHEN THE HOUSE met, the Plenipotentiary Extraordinary were absent. It was said they were at Cloverdale. In a little while Mr. Howe returned, looking very solemn, with all the radiant smile of yesterday gone, and still later Mr. Pooley arrived also, and with him a letter from the Premier. Mr. Pooley, accepting Mr. Pattullo's refusal with crisp courtesy. But fortunately there were moments of comedy during the afternoon which made us forget for a moment that we were really living through a crisis this time, that the volcano beneath us was in full eruption.

As the day opened, Mr. Speaker discovered a most embarrassing fact. He discovered that the budget debate had died of parental neglect in the night. For Mr. Uphill had adjourned the debate, and Mr. Uphill, having spoken once before, had no right to adjourn it. Mr. Uphill, with ready Irish wit, said he had spoken for himself, but he should be allowed to speak again for his countless colleagues, the Labor members who were "unavoidably absent" (having been defeated at the polls in 1928).

Even these blandishments could not move Mr. Speaker, and in the end Mr. Uphill, after moving formally that he be allowed to speak, withdrew this motion though, according to his own statement, he had stayed up all night preparing a speech, and had his desk heaped high with reference books.

NOT TOO FUSSY

MR. SPEAKER thought we hadn't been too fussy about technicalities or we might find ourselves in a worse jam. Privately he probably suspected that we might never pass the budget. So we went on with the budget debate as if nothing unpleasant had happened.

Dr. Kingston made a sound speech, in which he again demonstrated his independence by asking the government to reconsider its budget and save the hospitals and municipalities from the new slashes in their grants. It might be necessary to take the money from some other department like game administration, he said. He was willing to give swagbats for hospital purposes a trial to see if they would work. And he defended the Hope-Princeton Road, which would give his country quick access to the coast.

Minister of Lands Loughheed took up only a few minutes to defend those road policies for which he has been blamed on all sides as the "Panama Road." He said, indeed, the whole Legislature, since there is no record of any member complaining that the government was spending too much in his riding.

It was a rather impressive defence, buttressed with figures in which Mr. Loughheed is a specialist. He can compile more significant and compelling statistics than almost anyone in the House. His statistics showed, among other things, that in 1920 our roads, valued at $42,000,000, produced $568,000 in revenue, or 1.35 per cent of the investment. But in 1930, after his building programme, they were valued at $65,000,000 and produced revenue of $3,945,000 or 6.07 per cent. The elimination of curves on the Fraser Valley highways alone had saved motorists $300,000 a year, Mr. Loughheed calculated with a series of remarkable figures. Anyway, if he had to face the same situation over again Mr. Loughheed said he would have done exactly what he did.

DESERVES IT

MR. MANSON took the rest of the afternoon, but, having made no formal speech before, he deserved it. He used it to excellent advantage, but his speech would have been still stronger if half of it had been left out, if he had been content to drop the whole government views. On the whole it was an excellent speech, such as one expects from Mr. Manson and filled with all the old fire.

He started quietly, with a sinister restraint which did not comfort the hard-boiled Conservatives. He assailed the budget, said Mr. Jones didn't know his job when he guessed wrong on revenues by $5,000,000 a year, condemned Mr. Pooley's game department and his moth balls; and came to the conclusion that even the Conservatives had no confidence in their own government.

DEADLY SINS

AND NO WONDER, Mr. Manson listed the sins of the government, its drift, lack of direction, instability of policy, its ostrich effort to hide its head in the sand by passing its financial burden on to municipalities. Now, he said, the government sought coalition, and he added deliciously that the Conservatives were crying for the Liberals to take them in. Well, surveying the situation impartially, Mr. Manson would admit that there was good ability on the government side, but not in the cabinet. Wh, then, didn't the Premier have admitted the incompetence of the government and the need of the new one—reorganize on Conservative principles? For was it fair, he asked, that men who pleaded guilty to incompetence should ask consideration in a new government?

Mr. Manson didn't like to be unkind, he said, but he had to tell the truth. The unkind words were wrong from him. The unkind fact was that we didn't need union government, but strong government, and union might be the weakest kind of government possible. When someone said Mr. Manson just wanted a hurt anyone's feelings, he retorted instantly that he didn't care about such things. He only wanted a leader who would show the way.

BEST MAN

AS FOR THE new leader, Mr. Manson was frank. He came unhesitatingly to the conclusion that Mr. Pattullo was the man. Whether Mr. Manson spoke in all this for Mr. Pattullo, we could not say. Mr. Pattullo at the moment was reading the paper. But he probably agreed privately.

Mr. Manson went on to list the virtues of Mr. Pattullo in exhaustive detail and finally concluded that we had got to choose someone. The government could not carry on, could not be re-elected.

We must choose someone, said Mr. Manson, because we did not want third parties, small groups and chaos. But frankly, after all these negotiations and messages back and forth, Mr. Manson didn't believe we were going to get anywhere on union—a blunt statement which could not be interpreted except as a Liberal Party expression. In the end, with a peroration which was extremely effective, Mr. Manson asked the House to take its courage in its hands, close the session, "go to the people in the old British way and let them decide." If the government were returned, Mr. Manson would give them all support possible. If Mr. Pattullo were returned, he should expect the same kind of treatment. And Mr. Manson sat down with his position clear, but the position of politics as a whole more hazy than ever.

SHAW LEAVES CALIFORNIA

Fires Last Salvo to Army of Reporters Aboard Britain at San Pedro

Jokes With Charlie Chaplin and Screen Stars on Forced Landing Yesterday

Canadian Press
 San Pedro, Cal., March 29.—Peering down over a rail from the deck of the steamship Empress of Britain as it prepared to sail yesterday evening, George Bernard Shaw, Irish dramatist, saluted at a miniature army of reporters.

As the first question rolled up from the dock through the gathering dusk, Shaw, the greatest American literary contemporary, Mr. Shaw?

"What do you see down here, Mr. Shaw?"

"Nothing but rocks, grass, vegetables and Americans."

"Our cinema actors pretty good," Mr. Shaw said.

"Ask me another one."

"Doesn't read moderns?"

"Who is the greatest American literary contemporary, Mr. Shaw?"

"I don't know. I read Poe and Dickens, but no moderns."

"How many successful plays have you written?"

"All of my plays have been successful. I don't write any other kind."

"What do you think of American literature?"

"American newspapermen ask a lot of idiotic questions. I put on a show for the boys at San Francisco like I never put on before. I think they got more out of it than I did, at that."

THE FAIR HELEN

Someone asked if he had any word to send to the tennis queen, Helen Wills Moody, who met him in England some time ago and had sent word to him that she regretted her inability to visit him while he was in California.

"Anything I have to say to the fair Helen is far too sweet and intimate to be relayed by a third person," he answered with dignity.

And, remarking with finality, that he would "look over" Panama and New York on his return, he turned on his heel and disappeared within the glistening walls of the great liner.

AFTER A FISH

Santa Monica, Cal., March 29.—George Bernard Shaw, Irish dramatist, came into Southern California yesterday like a seagull, making a forced landing on the beach north of the movie colony at Malibu, some fifteen miles north of the airport at which he was to land.

"I thought the pilot was going after a fish," the white-bearded critic said in commenting on his feelings when he saw the airplane swooping down on the ocean's edge.

A perilous but successful landing on a beach twenty-feet wide was made when a storm closed in on the cabin plane in which Mr. Shaw and Mrs. Shaw with George Hearst, San Francisco publisher, were flying down from San Simeon, Cal., to Cloverfield here.

"What about the bravery?" Mr. Shaw was asked.

"Well, the pilot must have been her to tears."

Woman's First Story Of Shooting Excluded

Statement Made to Police Officers Does Not Go to Jury in Murder Trial

Mrs. Lovatt's State of Mind at the Time Is Question; Parents on Stand

Chief Justice Morrison yesterday afternoon excluded from evidence in the Lovatt murder trial a statement alleged to have been made by Mrs. Lovatt to police officers at the Jubilee Hospital on March 6. His ruling was made after argument by counsel on both sides.

On the admissibility of a second statement allegedly made on the following day, Edward Henderson, senior defence counsel, resumes his argument to-day. An early adjournment was taken in the afternoon session while Mr. Henderson was making his submission after hearing from Chief John Byrne of Oak Bay that Mrs. Lovatt had told him she had seen her lawyer and he had advised her to "talk and tell the truth."

The Chief Justice proposed the adjournment at this critical juncture to enable the defence to consider its position.

PARENTS ON STAND

The appearance of Mr. and Mrs. George Lovatt Sr. on the stand was a feature of the session which was mainly taken up with the evidence of Chief John Byrne.

The elder Lovatts were called by Mr. Henderson to testify regarding the appearance at their home on the morning after the shooting of Mrs. Jessie Lovatt, who had left the hospital of her own accord at that time. They were each asked only a few questions to clear up this point.

In his preliminary evidence, Chief Byrne detailed the scene which met his eyes when he visited the home of the two accused after the shooting, referring to statements made to him by Mr. Lovatt when he entered and to the various articles he found in his search of the premises, including coils of rope, a hunting knife, keenly sharpened, with sheath; a pile of children's clothing in the living room, and shot-gun and revolver cartridges in Lovatt's bedroom.

The chief then described the events leading up to his interview with Mrs. Lovatt at the hospital on the afternoon of March 6. He had visited her on the night of the shooting but did not think either she or Coulson was in a condition to be interviewed.

IN DETENTION ROOM

On March 6 he went to see her with Detective Inspector Jack McLean of the city force in a detention room at the hospital. He first asked her how she felt and then introduced Inspector McLean and told her he was making inquiries about the night before.

Mr. Henderson cross-examined the chief at length on this point.

"When did you see her first?" he asked.

"On the floor at Milson Street," witness replied.

Counsel: Had you any conversation with her?

Witness: No.

Counsel: Did you see her again?

Witness: Yes, the same night, but she was in a very nervous condition.

Counsel: When next?

Witness: When Constable Clayards brought her to the police station next morning.

Counsel: Did you know she was missing from the hospital at that time?

Witness: Yes, a Jubilee Hospital official phoned me at 8:45 o'clock to say she had escaped.

Counsel: And you didn't see her again until that afternoon?

Witness: No.

Counsel: Was she in the same room as the previous night?

Witness: No, in the detention room.

Counsel: Describe that room.

Witness: The windows are covered with heavy netting on the inside. The door fastens from the outside and there is a peep-hole on the door.

Counsel: A room from which there is no chance for escape?

Witness: Yes.

Counsel: Why was she placed there?

Witness: In consequence of her condition as she said to me.

Counsel: Would you have let her go?

Witness: No, because I thought it was dangerous to allow her free. When brave," he said with a smile. "He landed safely. But, personally, I can claim no great bravery for myself. I didn't know what was happening when I saw the ocean swooping up us."

SENSATIONAL MANOEUVRE

With breakers rolling on the right and the traffic on the Roosevelt Highway a menace on the left, Pilot Ray Crawford went through some quick and sensational manoeuvring to slide the plane down to its forced landing.

But Crawford managed to make it a three-point stop on the narrow beach with no damage to the ship nor injuries to the passengers.

The trip, with such an unexpected climax, finally wound up in the Culver City Metro-Goldwyn-Mayor studios. There, director Davies presided at a luncheon in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Shaw. Among the guests were: Louis B. Mayer, John Barrymore, Charles Chaplin, Clark Gable and other screen luminaries.

"What do you think of our weather?" asked Chaplin as a laugh went round.

"Well, about 5,000 feet up, I did get a glimpse of sunshine for about two minutes," was the Shavian reply.

Following the luncheon, Mr. Shaw and his wife were shown the studios, and then they went to San Pedro and boarded the steamship Empress of Britain.

ACTRESS WEEPS

The hypercritical iconoclast left in his wake a number of screen celebrities who were impressed by his visit despite his caustic remark that he would return some time and "show you how to make pictures."

Ann Harding, actress, told Mr. Shaw she had played the part of Lady Cecily in "Captain Brassbound's Conversion."

The dramatist bluntly told her "it must have been a pitiful performance."

"Indeed, it was not," the actress told him. "We had permission in writing from your own agent."

The actress then hurriedly left the dramatist, entered a dressing room, closed the door and wept.

No one told Mr. Shaw he had driven her to tears.

she left the hospital in the morning she only had her shoes and stockings and her hat and coat on. At the police station she said to me: "Why don't you people let me die?"

The chief testified he had taken out a warrant at 2 o'clock the same day for arrest of Mrs. Lovatt as a material witness in the charge against her husband of attempted murder.

Inspector McLean was called at this juncture to corroborate the chief's testimony regarding the interview with Mrs. Lovatt.

Prosecutor C. I. Harrison then asked permission to tender the statement as evidence, and the defence proceeded to call three witnesses on the point.

Dr. E. M. Pearce, the hospital superintendent, testified that Mrs. Lovatt had been given three doses of a mild sedative between the time she entered the hospital and the time she was interviewed.

"What effect would it have had on her mind?" asked Mr. Harrison.

"None," witness replied.

Mrs. L. M. Lovatt, 2038 43rd Street, was next called to testify that Mrs. Jessie Lovatt had come to her place on the morning of March 6. Her husband, George Lovatt Sr., testified he was informed Constable Clayards to this effect and they had found her in the chicken house at the rear.

After presenting this evidence, Mr. Henderson gave his argument against admitting the statement.

WOMAN'S CONDITION

"My submission is it should not be received as evidence," he said. "Mrs. Lovatt is the wife of the other prisoner. At the time she was first seen by the police she was in a faint on the floor; she was taken to hospital in a very nervous condition; the chief agrees she was harassed by her nervous condition; then she left the hospital and was found in the chicken house of her husband's parents; then taken to the hospital and put in a detention room which is practically a jail. At no time did the officers give her any warning, notwithstanding her husband was in jail, and she could not have been a witness against him."

"It is not necessary to say 'You are under arrest' to put a person under arrest," he argued. "I submit that any testimony of this kind would place her in an unfair position, especially when she was harassed by her nervous condition, and that the man who was shot was one with whom, according to the evidence, she had been friendly."

ROAD BUILDING IS DEFENDED

Benefits which had accrued from his road building programme, of 1925-29 were ample justification of his expenditures which had been subject to considerable criticism, Hon. N. S. Loughheed, Minister of Lands, stated in the Legislature yesterday.

The minister referred to his term as Minister of Public Works and said when he took over the office an extensive road building programme had been laid down. The Cariboo road was one that had to be completed.

In 1930 the value of highways in British Columbia, he said, was $42,000,000 and they brought revenue of $568,000. In 1930 the value of highways was $66,000,000 and the revenue $9,942,300. In 1930 they brought $1,580,000 on expenditure and in 1930 they brought $6,500,000 on expenditure. In 1929 it was necessary to take $2,000,000 from consolidated revenue for its maintenance. In 1932 with all interest, maintenance and sinking fund charges met the taxpayers only had to pay $1,500,000. The provincial highways had paid the people in the last four years $14,000,000, more than in the previous ten years. The speaker referred to their value for bringing tourists and for development of the province.

Answering criticism of Dr. J. J. Gillis, Liberal, Yale, of the previous day that the action of the Lands Department was blocking efforts to work the Diamond Vale Colliery which it had taken over for tax arrears, Mr. Loughheed said when the department was satisfied the bondholders and shareholders would not meet the $52,000 arrears, tenders would be called for. The people of Merritt would be given an opportunity to secure it at ten per cent cash and the balance in nine years but the statute did not provide for its disposal to work on a co-operative basis as had been requested.

"PIGS IS PIGS"

A Success and a Tragedy

This Is Interesting Reading

THAT was the title of a book so successful that it nearly ruined the author. Why? Because when he subsequently sent other stories to the publishers, they always returned them with the request "Send us something as good as 'Pigs Is Pigs'", and he could get nothing published. His success became a tragedy.

I think it will not be denied that the food I devised twenty-five years ago is the greatest advance in human food evolution in modern times, especially in regard to foods derived from grains. A food that can bring a man back from almost the grave at fifty, after fifty years of invalidism, cannot be less, and Roman Meal did that for me by returning to my blood its normal alkali reserve. The two qualities that made this food stand out from all other grain or cereal foods as distinctly as day from night were its capacity to build and rebuild in the human body a normal alkali reserve, "Nature's first defense against fatigue, disease and premature death", and also its absolute and positive relief of both forms of constipation.

Science says: "No effect can outlast its cause". Well, constipation and a loss of alkalis from the blood are the basic causes of almost all disease. Eliminate these causes of disease and diseases automatically disappear. That is my whole story. I subsisted upon acid-forming, devitalized foods for my first fifty years, dogged constantly with disease and threatened with death. I then invented alkaline Roman Meal and became one of this continent's most vital men, and still am at seventy-five. I still can do anything the average healthy man in his early thirties can do, and do it better. One-third of the food I eat is Roman Meal, Bekus Puddy or Lishus, the latter two being new cereals with every health-building property of Roman Meal—equally alkaline, equally laxative, equally delicious.

So, unlike the author of "Pigs Is Pigs", I have succeeded in equalling my first effort—Roman Meal. Bekus Puddy (pronounced Beck-us) is, as its name implies, a pudding for breakfast, truly delicious, and would make a great sale for itself on this quality alone, but add its equality with Roman Meal and watch it become famous. Lishus is, as its name also implies, delicious and yet it contains a slight bitterness evident upon prolonged chewing, a slightly bitter tonic to the digestive organs which is a great aid to digestion and intestinal elimination, a God-send to those who suffer from acid stomach, gas, pressure, heartburn, ulceration, colitis. It is also a boon to the ailing, anemic, dyspeptic, constipated, undernourished child and equally beneficial to the well child. A search of all the foods of the world will discover no superior to Lishus for invalids and for convalescents from any and all forms of sickness and disease.

Remember Bekus Puddy and Lishus are the equal of Roman Meal. This is the acme of recommendation; need I say more about them?

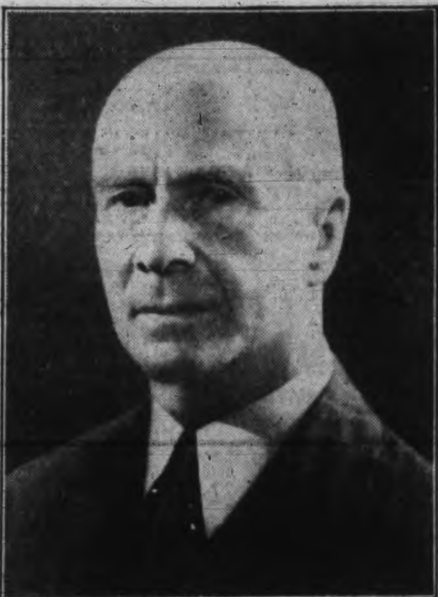

80 per cent. of the food intake should consist of alkaline foods. I shall gladly send a list of the other alkaline foods which should go with my alkaline cereals; also my booklet, "HOW TO KEEP WELL," to those who write for them; see address below.

Write for samples of Roman Meal, Bekus Puddy, Lishus or Kofy-Sub and Dr. Jackson's booklet "HOW TO KEEP WELL," also list of alkaline foods, to Dr. Jackson, M.D., 577 Vine Avenue, Toronto, Ontario.

The above is a photograph of Robt. G. Jackson, M.D., at 75. After eighteen years of increasing decrepitude and approaching death, Dr. Jackson at 50 was given only four months to live by the great Sir Wm. Osler.

By natural living habits and the use of alkaline foods, Dr. Jackson is today, at 75, able to do anything the average healthy man in his early thirties can do.

London, March 29.—Mrs. George Lansbury, wife of the leader of the British Labor party, who died Thursday, did not want her funeral to be a mournful affair, but rather an occasion for thanksgiving to God for a happy life.

And so it was. In accordance with her request the famous wedding march by Mendelssohn could be heard through the doors of the packed church as the crowd outside watched the mourners file into the edifice. The more jubilant chords of the Halleluiah Chorus rang through the church as the mourners left.

That part of the East End of London known as Bow, where Mr. and Mrs. Lansbury had lived most of their married life, was overcast with a heartfelt feeling of mourning as the funeral procession passed, the streets were lined with people for whom Mrs. Lansbury and "George" always had a kind word.

She was removed to her beach home under medical care. She is expected to return to work in a few days.

Treasure Tea To Be Continued On Friday Evening

In response to many requests, the Local Council of Women has decided to hold its "Treasure Tea" and exhibition of priceless heirlooms and other antiques on Friday evening as well as in the afternoon. The display is being arranged at the New Thought Hall, and so many are the exhibits that the smaller hall, as well as the main auditorium, is being pressed into service.

In the afternoon, tea will be served under the direction of Mrs. T. Clarke, and a musical programme will include vocal solos by Mrs. Edward Parsons and Miss Mae Mason; piano duets by the Misses Critchard; piano-accompaniment, Mrs. Evelyn Holt, and radio demonstration by Desmond Kendall. In the evening the vocalists will include Mrs. Bertram Mayell, soprano; Mrs. Scott-Burritt, contralto, and J. J. Matheson, baritone; piano-accompaniment by Mrs. Holt.

Mrs. Fanny Gadsden will assist Mrs. Burges Gadsden in conveying the antiques, and Mrs. W. Peden, Miss J. Crease, and Mrs. L. E. Bond will have charge of the early Victorian exhibit. Among the many treasures promised for the collection is an old spinning wheel and yarn winder of Pennsylvania Dutch origin, originally the property of one of the early Mennonite settlers in 1815. It is being loaned by Mr. Pollard, James Bay.

So many fascinating exhibits have been offered that only space forbids the acceptance of them all, but the council would be glad to receive one such article from any one person, and promises that every care will be taken of all exhibits loaned for the occasion.

Mrs. F. H. Parsons, 67491, is the general convenor of the treasure tea.

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDER

OBSERVE SAFEGUARDS IN USE OF ARTIFICIAL FEEDINGS

Certain general rules regarding artificial feeding apply indiscriminately to most babies. The methods advised act as safeguards against accidents which otherwise might be expected to arise from the use of a food which is not the natural one for babies.

USE GRADE A

One of these rules is to use a good grade of milk. Grade A pasteurized milk is suitable to most babies, though certified milk is the best grade and every effort is employed to make it the cleanest, freshest, best milk obtainable. It is from a reputable dairy which is inspected and approved by alert health departments, grade A pasteurized milk is safe to use. Grade B milk is for cooking purposes and should not be used for infant feeding.

The next insurance against digestive upsets is to boil any milk, just a policy of security which is vitally important in summer. Boiling the milk kills any harmful bacteria, which might have developed after the milk leaves the dairy. It also makes the milk easier for the baby to digest since heat changes the protein element so that it is more easily attacked by the digestive juices and assimilated by baby's system.

PROPORTIONS OF FORMULA

In the majority of cases the most practical, convenient, and economical formula is milk. A sufficient bottle of milk will furnish baby from one and one-half ounces to two ounces for each pound of his weight. This means from fifteen to twenty ounces of milk daily for a ten-pound baby. The individual formula is reached by starting with the minimum amount and noting baby's rate of gain on it. Fifteen ounces may result in a good gain, but twenty ounces will be essential to bring about an adequate increase in weight. Thirty-two ounces of milk daily is the maximum amount for any baby.

In addition to the milk there will be from two to six tablespoons of sugar daily, according to baby's age, weight and tolerance of it.

The other ingredient in the formula is boiled water, which is added to dilute the milk, make it more easily digestible, and furnish a sufficient amount of formula at each feeding to keep baby comfortable and satisfied. Full information may be obtained from my leaflet, "Sweet Milk Formula." Send your request to this department with a self-addressed, stamped envelope and your copy will be mailed promptly.

Write Mrs. Elder in detail about your problems of child care. A self-addressed, stamped envelope should be sent with your letter to Myrtle Meyer Elder in care of this newspaper.

To-morrow "Show Child How to Help Himself."

FOUR OF FIVE CO-EDS WED

But Marriage Is Urged No Bar to College Girls Preparing For Life Work

One University Woman in Each Five Left Single, But One in Twelve Works

Los Angeles, March 29.—"Be prepared!" should be the slogan of every college woman to-day, according to Dean Helen Mathewson Laughlin of the University of California at Los Angeles in a current series of vocational councils for university women.

"Four out of every five women on this continent marry," said the dean. "But suppose you are the fifth. If every girl plans her educational programme with a view to the practical use in time of need she will find that when that need develops she is not only better able to cope with the exigencies of business life, but she possesses a knowledge and ability which make her valuable to her family, her club, or her social group."

Marriage, however, by no means precludes necessity of working, according to the dean. She pointed out that one out of every twelve married women in the United States is employed.

PREPARED FOR EMERGENCY
"In a world of quite unforeseen changes every woman should be prepared to take her place in the business field should the need arise. The college woman," according to the dean, "is not a woman who is waiting for a husband to fit her for preferred employment. Then, if the need arises, she is prepared; if the need for gainful employment never comes, she is still in possession of knowledge and ability which make her valuable to her family, her club, or her social group."

Featured in the current council was a comparative new profession now open to women—that of business promoter. This type of position is usually available with department stores and sales organizations which must appeal to women for their largest following. The dean, who believes that "sales education" is a profession better suited to women who understand the psychology of the feminine sex.

A profession akin to that of the sales promoter is that of demonstrator—the woman who plans a sales campaign in more modest fashion than the real promoter behind the scenes, but who must meet the public and attitude make friends for and believe in the product she is selling. University courses valuable for the young woman who plans to enter this type of work are many and varied, asserted the speaker, with particular emphasis in more modest fashion than the real promoter behind the scenes, but who must meet the public and attitude make friends for and believe in the product she is selling. UCLA women students numbering more than 100 are making a special survey of vocational opportunities for college women, and this week's conference will be succeeded by others scheduled for the new year. During the series of conferences women who have achieved special success in various lines have been guest speakers.

PAUL POIRET WRITES LIFE

Paris Dressmaker Describes Lady Asquith as "Bitter-mouthed, Tight-lipped"

Recalls Furore When She Staged Style Show in Downing Street

London, March 29.—In the book "My First Fifty Years," Paul Poiret, born dressmaker, writes that as a boy, he was apprenticed by his father to an umbrella manufacturer and he hated the job. However, he found solace in fidgeting bits of silk that fell out while the umbrellas were being cut, took them home, and spent delightful evenings pinning them on. Not until a wooden mannequin which his sisters had given him. He made it successfully a piquante Parisienne and an eastern queen. This decided his career; one day he took some of his designs to a lady modiste, who accepted them and paid for them. After that progress was rapid. He left the lady to work for Doucet, and left Doucet to work for Worth, and left Worth to set up for himself.

It was during the last stage that he met Lady Asquith. He recalls "that long nose, full of grace, that sharp profile, that bitter, contemptuous mouth, close-lipped but always in movement . . . those rapid and capricious gestures; a sort of Roux chief." She entered like a thunder claps, was transported by his collection of dresses, and invited him and some of his mannequins to tea with her in London, when they would have an opportunity of meeting her "most elegant friends." Paul accepted, and set forth for London accompanied by some of his most beautiful mannequins and loveliest tailoresses. So far, so good; the day after their arrival they drove in taxis and "staid to Lady Asquith's domicile."

And that happened to be at the time No. 10 Downing Street, the official residence of the prime ministers of England. The trunks were unpacked; the parade was a triumph; then, Mr. Asquith came in for a moment and was presented, he returned to his study "looking rather grave," and at seven in the evening Paul and his army of mannequins were packed off without any standing on ceremony. There were no drums or trumpets as they climbed into their taxis.

QUESTIONS ASKED
Next day in the papers there were large portraits of Asquith, with Paul Poiret opposite him; there was a gigantic headline: "An Exhibition at Downing Street." They wanted to know why Asquith, a freemason, had lent his salons to a foreign merchant and was organizing exhibitions in the residence which was paid for by the nation's taxes? Questions were asked in Parliament and Asquith was called to order by his own party. But Poiret was launched in London. Margot had to order clothes all over London to prove her loyalty and fidelity.

The Man Hunters

By MABEL McELLIOTT
(Copyright by NEA Service)

In a narrow room furnished agreeably with old English oak a young man was packing a traveling bag. His expression was stern, his eyes intent. He laid out shirts and handkerchiefs with methodical care. On a luggage rack in one corner of the room lay a huge pigskin case, lined in gold. Everything about the place indicated departure. The telephone rang and the young man answered. He frowned, putting his hand over the mouthpiece instinctively as if wishing to gain time. He said very quietly, "Yes, of course. Any time you say. At one then."

Uncle Wiggily and the Cat's Breakfast

(By HOWARD H. GARIS)

The Bob Cat sat in his gloomy den. He looked at his pussies—at his wife and then he growled a growl and said: "My task, I'm going to get Uncle Wiggily's ear!"

"What do you mean—silly?" mewed Mr. Bob Cat as he sat on his little tail so his pussy children wouldn't laugh at it. Not that they were any longer but they hoped their tails would grow long. "I mean it's silly," said Mrs. Bob Cat, "for you to be talking about getting Uncle Wiggily's ear or any part of him. That rabbit is too smart for you."

"Oh, is he?" sneered Mr. Bob Cat. "He surely is," answered his wife. "Doesn't he always fool you?"

"Sorry, madam, but he's checked out. He said, 'and here there was another brief wait as though the speaker were referring to some memorandum before him,' he said to tell anyone who called he was leaving for the city. The den was empty. Her chignon handkerchiefs into strips, her eyes blazing.

"His father's an old fool!" she muttered. "He's got away from us!"

CHAPTER XLVIII
The church was dark and old. There was about it none of the feverish activity usually associated with a wedding. There was no canopy nor was there a strip of crimson carpet. There were no flowers massed in nave or chancel. The bridesmaids were waiting with hushed expectancy the arrival of the bride. The organ was silent. The church was empty.

Outside were the high winds and blue sky of one of spring's more benignant days. A group of chattering girls broke away from the door of the unseen organist began to finger the strains of the memorable music. It was the Lohengrin march he was playing. The organist, in his vestments, came to the door of the anteroom to gaze anxiously toward the back of the church. The organist played softly. He was willing to break into the crashing chords which announce the arrival of the bride.

A tall, pleasant-faced girl, prettily dressed in dove-gray, was whispering to some friends in the pew. They were listening to her words with interest. "You could have knocked me over with a feather," she said. "I knew they were thinking about it but I didn't know it was to be so soon."

"But Rose," protested a small chubby damsel sentimentally, "I think this is the nicest way to be married—without any fuss and sort of like a surprise party."

"Oh, of course I'd like to have a nice, fat rabbit for lunch," said Mrs. Bob Cat. "But he'll know I'm one of the kind Chase as soon as he sees me. When I knock at his door and ask for breakfast."

"How?" asked her husband. "By my tail," answered the lady Bob Cat. "My tail is short and silly like yours. It's no use trying."

"Don't say that!" mewed the old man Bob Cat. "Don't give up what you're trying. I have an idea! Take some feathers out of the duster and tie them on your tail. That will make it look like a rabbit's tail. Then you can knock on his door and ask for breakfast. He'll be sure to let you in. And when he is feeding you then grab him and bring him here."

"All right, I'll try it!" agreed the lady Bob Cat. "But I'm sure it will be a foolish trick."

"Don't say that!" mewed her husband. "Here I'll help tie the feathers on your little short tail." So Mrs. Bob Cat was made ready to go and fool Uncle Wiggily. And when she was ready to start she asked her little Bob Cat:

"What? I'll try it!" agreed the lady Bob Cat. "But I'm sure it will be a foolish trick."

"Don't say that!" mewed her husband. "Here I'll help tie the feathers on your little short tail." So Mrs. Bob Cat was made ready to go and fool Uncle Wiggily. And when she was ready to start she asked her little Bob Cat:

SUPPORT FOR LEAGUE URGED

Individuals Should Interest Themselves in Geneva, Says Hon. R. L. Maitland

"There are very few things that the men and women of to-day can better lend their support to than the League of Nations," said Hon. R. L. Maitland, K.C., minister without portfolio in the Toole cabinet, in the course of an address before the Victoria League of Nations Society at a dinner meeting in Spencer's, yesterday evening.

Though Mr. Maitland touched on the peace efforts of the League and the work it was doing toward the eradication of the drug traffic and the establishment of uniform conditions and uniform hours for labor throughout the world, he dealt with the subject predominantly from the point of view of the man in the street.

"Would it not be a good thing if we gave more attention to the League?" he asked at the opening of his address. "Every man, be he ever so humble, left his footprints and the question was relevant whether the average person should not pause often and take stock of himself."

Mr. Maitland emphasized it was a composite of each single individual's viewpoint that made world opinion. There was no doubt civilization had advanced under the influence of a more humane philosophy and an increasing education. Education, he said, with its power of shaping and of imparting the right atmosphere, could be used to produce any condition the human being desired and persuaded a man that wonders in the spirit of the League of Nations could be accomplished if only each individual could be guided toward the light.

In noting the swing back toward religion now, the speaker stated nothing much could be done without Christianity and a belief in the immortality of the soul. The church, which had always been fighting in the best interests of humanity, must still be the mainstay of all action toward a better life.

In this connection, Mr. Maitland said a depression was a good thing in a lot of ways. It might be a bad thing politically speaking, but it at least made people stop and when they stopped they thought. Before the depression, life had been regarded by the majority as an eternal cinch. Now the trend was toward spiritual things and such a movement led to thoughts of a more humane and international type.

Dean Quinlan occupied the chair in the remarks to the audience at the conclusion of the address. Rev. W. G. Wilson, D.D., extended an invitation to Mr. Maitland to give his speech from the pulpit of First United Church next Sunday.

TAX STRIKE MOVE MADE

Victoria Ratepayers' Association Will Act If Mill Rate Is Increased

Seek Lower Assessments; Protest Against Rise in Civic Levies

Without a dissenting vote, a meeting of the Victoria Ratepayers' Association, which filled the Chamber of Commerce Auditorium to capacity, yesterday evening passed a resolution advocating a tax strike if the rate on real estate and improvements were increased. Frank Higgins, president of the association and chairman of the meeting, declared Mayor David Leeming had frequently stated the assessment in Victoria was too high. It was the association's aim to show him public opinion was behind him on the matter.

The meeting, scheduled as a "wide open discussion of taxation in Victoria," saw several people air their views on the matter, the assembly maintaining its interest toward Chapman brought up his attack on the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau and had a resolution disallowed by the chairman because Mr. Chapman had made a charge of personal dishonesty against one man. The crowd began to disperse when Mr. Chapman started his recital.

Three resolutions were passed at the meeting. The first, introduced by ex-Alderman W. F. Fullerton, read as follows: "Resolved that this meeting of property owners of Victoria, strongly and emphatically protest against the existing rate of taxation on real estate or improvements being increased by the present aldermanic board."

The second, proposed by Rev. Balfour Bruce, follows: "Resolved that in the opinion of this meeting of property owners of Victoria that the existing rate of taxation on real estate or improvements be increased by the present aldermanic board that property owners of Victoria should be requested to pledge themselves not to pay any further taxes on their properties until the tax rate is brought back to the present rate."

The third, drafted by E. B. Andros, read as follows: "That in the opinion of this meeting one of the first and most important things to be brought about is that a new assessment be made, based on the actual value of real estate. By these means the mayor and aldermen would be prevented from all further borrowings and as a result the rate of taxation would be kept down to the actual amount required to run the city in a reasonable manner without borrowing to balance the budget."

A dozen people presented their ideas on present taxation questions in Victoria and put forward their suggestions for remedies. Mr. Higgins reminded the gathering the meeting had been called to protest the increase in taxation and to adopt some measure to make that protest effective. He spoke of the crippling effect of taxation in the city, calling it a Frankenstein which was devouring the home owners.

Instead of finding what revenue they could collect, the aldermen were budgeting first for expenditures, he said. It was the meeting's effort to show that a strong body of public opinion was averse to this policy. Following the reading of the first two resolutions, Mr. Andros stated he was not entirely in favor of the tax strike move. Property was valued at two or three times the sums which could be secured for it at present, he declared. It was the ratepayers' objective to curb the council in its activities of borrowing to balance the budget, he said. He spoke of alleged unnecessary expenses in connection with civic departments and stated the administration of relief was a blot on the escutcheon of Victoria. He attacked the payment of funds to the Chamber of Commerce and the Publicity Bureau.

Roy Ledingham expressed great interest in the militancy of the taxpayers. It was time for the ratepayers to make the council their servants and not let the aldermen give them "the raspberry."

It was time, he said, for the landlords to send out a plea for co-operation to the tenants. The sinking middle class had to depend upon the working classes, he said.

His ultimate ideal was the abolition of taxation, but in the interim he believed economies could be effected through salary reductions at the city hall. He would also like to see the rights of recall and referendum given to the taxpayers, as well as the right to suspend interest payments.

Major Cuthbert Holmes pointed to the hardship placed upon a group of men who had invested their capital in real estate and found themselves profitless when their taxes were paid. He had heard the city assessor say he had set valuations on land which he could secure from purchasers. He lands he thought, could bring as high a price as that for which they were assessed. Land paid three times as much in taxation as did income, he added.

Comparatively recent arrivals in Victoria told of following the birds and making their nests here. If taxation continued to go up they felt they would be forced to leave their nests, they said. One speaker stated an improvement assessment had been made on his property three to four times as great as the actual improvements had cost.

W. C. Warner questioned the advisability of organizing a tax strike. Should not, he asked, those who could afford to pay, meet their civic levies?

His remark that a tax strike savored dangerously of Communism was greeted with hilarity by the gathering. In Mr. Warner's opinion civic debts were being paid off too rapidly. They should be spread over a period of years, according to the leading quality of the

He framed his remedy in the form of a rhetorical question which no one appeared to understand. REDUCE COSTS. R. E. Collis preached a programme of reducing the costs of civic administration, paying particular reference to cutting civic salaries, from the mayor down. In some detail he described the costs of fire protection, stating on the average of the last twenty years Victoria had paid in three dollars for every one it had collected in insurance. If the citizens were in danger of losing their homes through taxation, as he thought they were, why should they seek fire protection, he asked? H. Kirkpatrick and Mrs. Julia B. Biquiere spoke, the latter attacking the high assessment and the Publicity Bureau grant.

SALES TALK DRAWS CROWD

Herbert L. Knox of Chicago Addresses Business Men on Salesmanship

Over 200 business men and merchandising salesmen of the city yesterday evening filled the auditorium of the Sport-Shaw Business College to hear a lecture on "The New Salesmanship" by Herbert L. Knox, vice-president and Pacific Coast manager of the Knox School of Salesmanship and Business Administration of Chicago.

Diving right into his subject and speaking with machine-gun rapidity, Mr. Knox outlined the psychology of salesmanship. The fundamentals of successful salesmanship he gave as follows:

A definite plan of constructive procedure, technical sales and business knowledge, the executive ability to enable the salesman to carry out his plan.

A sale is not the salesman, nor the goods sold, nor even the name signed on the dotted line. Mr. Knox explained in the course of his inspiring business talk.

A sale is what occurs in the mind of the buyer, he said, and what occurs in the mind of the buyer is the purchase of merchandise he can advantageously and profitably use, and the conversational ability to sell.

Mr. Knox dealt with the points of legitimate profit and the rendering of satisfactory service to the buying public, and contrasted them with the old practice of selling.

"Service," said Knox, "consists of furnishing people with the things they need, which are equal in value and service."

He gave dominant fundamentals—an intense desire to be of service, a technical knowledge necessary to render that service, the sales power or sales ability to sell that merchandise to the people who desire it.

Other fundamentals were a real love of humanity and the desire to solve its problems, and the belief that permanent way that business can be built up.

"All the money we ever get," commented the speaker, "comes to us from other people. The public does not care so much about the money it pays if we render dollar service for every dollar we get."

"There are three ways of making money, through inheritance, by stealing, and people are far too smart these days to make money that way, so the only method to use is by the service we render. We succeed through the co-operation of our fellow men."

SALESMANSHIP

Dealing specifically with salesmanship, Mr. Knox said: "Salesmanship is the spark plug of business and the present agent of prosperity. It is the dynamic force responsible for keeping our factories going and our labor employed. The public is bored by the old-fashioned salesmanship of the past. A great deal of responsibility rested on the shoulders of the salesman, he contended, because if the salesman did not call the manufactured merchandise, the technical workers and detailed specialists would be on the bread line."

"Salesmanship," the speaker went on, "is the blind alley of failure in the human contacts where men grow into leadership, power and service. Salesmanship is the only way to success. It is the idea in your mind and lead him to your prospect's mind and lead him to accept these ideas."

At 8:30 o'clock he addressed the members of the Esquimalt Branch of the Esquimalt Association, who were present in large numbers.

Mr. Knox addressed a special meeting of the Victoria Life Underwriters' Association in Spencer's dining-room yesterday evening. He spoke for an hour and a half, and was well received by the members of the association. He also spoke to the members of the Esquimalt Branch of the Esquimalt Association, who were present in large numbers.

The Esquimalt Council viewed with favor a proposal presented at its meeting this week by H. F. Bourne, municipal engineer, suggesting the draining of Skinner Flats, the ditching of Lynn Street, and the piping and filling of a ditch to permit a parking space in front of Bullen's Park as relief project for the married men of the municipality.

The scheme calls for an expenditure of $1,206.10 by Esquimalt to furnish 622 days' work, $3 a day on basis of five and one-half days a month. The total cost, including the government's share, of the work, it is understood, would be $2,571, of which $2,047 would be borne by the government.

The matter will be given further consideration.

The council's relief committee will also consider a scheme presented by the Burnaby Board of Trade to relieve unemployment by the inauguration of a system of issuing Dominion treasury notes for payment of municipal and civic public works costs.

Announcement was made the provincial government was not paying the entire rental charges levied against single men in Esquimalt, as municipal council had been led to believe by the government representative recently. In view of the fact the council had not been informed of the new regulation, Reeve Albert Heald stated he did not think the council should accept the arrangement.

JAIL MAN ON DRUG COUNT

William Johnson, Convicted of Illegal Possession, to Serve Nine Months

A sentence of nine months' imprisonment with a fine of $200 or, in default, an extra two months, was imposed on William Johnson, convicted of being illegally in possession of opium, in his rooming-house on March 22. The case was tried before Magistrate George Jay to-day in the City Police Court.

Johnson, pleading his own case, claimed he was "framed" by officers of the R.C.M.P., who made his arrest and discovered the opium in his room.

He introduced the evidence of Lee Fung, proprietor of the B.C. Rooms Store Street, in an effort to prove the room in which he was taken was not his. Entries in the register, however, carried Johnson's name. He admitted having been an addict.

In passing sentence, Magistrate Jay remarked the small quantity of opium found indicated the accused was using it solely for himself.

HOUSE THEFTS ARE ADMITTED

An answer to the recent wave of housebreaking and thefts during March was found in the City Police Court to-day when Jack Strathairn, arraigned yesterday on a charge of breaking and entering and theft from the premises of the B.C. Beauty Parlors in the Sayward Building, entered pleas of guilty to five housebreakings and thefts and one case of entering with intent to steal. The maximum penalty for the offence is fourteen years' imprisonment.

Taken into custody at the beginning of the week by Clifford Sheppard for the B.C. Beauty Parlor robbery, Strathairn, who had been charged with the same offence, pleaded guilty to the charges.

He admitted breaking into and stealing from the following homes on the following dates:

March 1, H. M. Vincent, 321 Linden Avenue.

March 25, Mrs. R. G. Coombe, 155 Linden Avenue.

March 24, Mrs. H. Billingsley, 51 Marlborough Street.

March 3, Mrs. B. C. Richards, 1000 Craigdarroch Road.

March 14, Mrs. I. Proctor, 350 Linden Avenue.

On March 14 he entered the home of Mrs. Mary Kenny, 624 Harbinger Avenue and attempted theft, according to his plea.

Hearing of the cases was adjourned until to-morrow morning when he will face the charge of joint theft with Sheppard from the B.C. Beauty Parlors. Sheppard was granted bail of $2,000 on two sureties to-day when he appeared in court.

Sheep Breeders Pleas Rejected

Committee of Legislature Turns Down Motion For Greater Control of Dogs

Three resolutions presented by the British Columbia Sheep Breeders' Association relating to the worrying and destruction of sheep by dogs were rejected by the agricultural committee of the British Columbia Legislature this morning.

One motion called for payment immediately from the sheep protection fund for loss of sheep caused by dogs placed the onus of prosecuting and collecting from the owner of the dog responsible upon the government.

Another resolution called for the government to appoint a man to collect dog licenses on commission in unorganized districts and destroy dogs when the owner could not or refused to pay. While not endorsing this motion the committee recommended more attention be given to collections.

The third motion rejected sought permission for farmers to shoot wandering female dogs.

A pile driver has been rented from the James McDonald Construction Company, Ltd., at a cost of $75.00 per day including seven skilled bridgemen, equipment and all operating costs.

J. W. Berry, member for Delta, has given notice to the Legislature of a bill to amend the Dairy Products Sales Adjustment Act. The purpose of the bill is to wind up the Committee of Adjustment, of which C. A. Welsh was chairman, and to indemnify the members of the committee against the possibility of personal damage suits based on the findings of the courts that the Act was unconstitutional.

No information has been received that the government intends to bring a measure to indemnify Reeve W. F. Brithard and two other officials of Burnaby municipality from the damage suit in which Mr. Justice Murphy suspended judgment in order to allow the Legislature to act.

THE SPORTS MIRROR

Bill Terry Faces Tough Job Putting Giants Near Top

Wes Ferrell Finally Signs For Cleveland With Bonus Clause

Bonus Plans Has Proven One of Baseball's Worst Evils

BILL TERRY, manager of the New York Giants in the National Baseball League, is optimistic over prospects for the coming campaign. "I'll bet a hat that if Jackson stages a comeback at shortstop, we'll finish among the first three," he said. Terry and the Giants actually are starting from scratch. The pitching staff looks anything but good. More punch at the plate is needed. The infield is a question mark at second and short, where a strong combination is really essential. Critz folded up last year and Jackson was out with a collapsible knee. Terry has been inspecting a whole flock of recruits and comeback fellows.

Terry needs pitchers most of all. The regulars are Hubbell, Fitzsimmons, Bell, Lague and Schumacher. Glenn Spencer was added in a trade with Pittsburgh. Ray Starr was taken from St. Louis. There are two grade A performers in that bunch, Hubbell and Fitzsimmons. Starr still must be rated as promising. Three young men from the Piedmont League are trying to make the grade. Mapp, Salveson and Smith. Two comebackers are Bill Shores, former Philadelphia Athletics hurler, rescued from Portland, and Farnelle, secured from the Columbus farm. Offhand, it appears Terry needs three more good pitchers before he can hope for the first division.

If Travis Jackson's trick knee does hold together, the whole team will have a better appearance. Critz must put on the pressure at second or go. Terry will play first and Verger third. The infield candidates are more numerous than usual. Oddly, the best-looking infielder is Terry's own understudy, Sam Leslie. Others are Blundy, Larney, who was kept around last year without showing much; Koe Maloy, from Winston-Salem; John Labore, also from Winston-Salem; Jim Byrne, from Dallas; and Gilbert English, who hit .225 in fifty-nine games with the Giants last year.

The outfield is fairly well set, except for reserves. The first line will be Mel Ott, the capable George Davis from the Phils and probably Moore. The latter, a candidate who hit .304 in eighty-six games with the Giants in 1932. Koenecke, who flopped last year, has been recalled from City. Homer Peck has been drafted from Houston for another big league trial, and Winston-Salem has sent two aspirants in Joe Martin and Henry Lieber.

The catching is good enough, with the veteran Mancuso, obtained from the St. Louis Cardinals, squatting in part of the big league. This probably will be used to cast. This probably will be a year in which much is seen of young Francis Henley, who was highly regarded by John McGraw.

Wes Ferrell, sensational young Cleveland pitcher who has won ninety-one games in four seasons, has been offered a cut from $18,000 to $12,000 this year. He revolted bitterly. Finally a bonus system was agreed upon. Ferrell signed for $12,000. If he wins twenty-five games he receives $15,000. That's the most he can get.

Ferrell is a young man who has a wholesome respect for the dollar. He has been in the do business with ever since coming to the majors. He also is a fellow with temperance. His quarrels with Manager Fickling, his public announcement that Joe McCarthy was the best manager in the majors and his putting and walking from the box unbidden when the batters were getting to him have been widely publicized.

He will want to win those twenty-five games badly. He always has earnestly wanted to win. He has been a many customers in Cleveland who never could be convinced of this. Cleveland has been picking him to pitch against the more formidable teams. Just how Ferrell will take this under his new contract is very much in doubt. He doesn't have to be told he can make more money pitching to setups.

The bonus plan for pitchers has proved itself one of baseball's worst evils. It foments bad feeling among the players, makes each player with a bonus contract an individual business man and frequently opens breaches between player and manager.

Some years ago George Uhle signed to a contract similar to Ferrell's. One of the infielders used to blow up higher than a kite upon occasions, and when he went into these erratic streaks it seemed to cost big George money every time. Uhle had no such temperment as Ferrell has shown but to this day Uhle lost a game that the infielder with a fishy eye.

ARIZMENDI IN DECISION WIN

Takes Verdict From Pedro Masquera; Don Fraser Suffers Knockout

Los Angeles, March 29.—"Baby" Arizmendi regained in some slight degree his title prestige here at the Olympic Auditorium yesterday evening when he won a slow, ten-round decision from Ecuador, Pedro Masquera. The "Bat" weighed 124 and his opponent a half pound less.

Young Peter Jackson, 139½ pounds, Wilmington, Cal., negro, knocked out Don Fraser, 142, Tacoma, in the second round of the scheduled ten-round semi-windup. Fraser kept on fairly even terms with Jackson in the first round but in the second the negro unleashed a hard right that drove Fraser a left hook to the body which floored him for a nine count. Fraser went down claiming a foul but he got up and Jackson knocked him out with a sharp left uppercut.

Detroit Loses Eddie Wiseman

Detroit, Mich., March 29.—Eddie Wiseman, fleet right winger and one of the most brilliant rookies in the American Hockey League this season, was injured in yesterday evening's game with Montreal Maroons and will be lost to Detroit for at least one game. He suffered a dislocated shoulder when he crashed into the boards with Lorne Duguid late in the second period.

The Regina wingers, who led the American Association point-makers last season, has been a powerful factor in Red Wings' drive to the playoffs with his first game. He picked him to pitch against the more formidable teams. Just how Ferrell will take this under his new contract is very much in doubt. He doesn't have to be told he can make more money pitching to setups.

The bonus plan for pitchers has proved itself one of baseball's worst evils. It foments bad feeling among the players, makes each player with a bonus contract an individual business man and frequently opens breaches between player and manager.

Former Drop 3 to 2 Decision to Detroit After Deadlocking Total Goal Count

CANADIENS TIE WITH RANGERS

Toronto Maple Leafs Take Second Game From Boston 1 to 0 After Overtime

Coach Dick Irvin's plan of an even break for his world champion Toronto Maple Leafs at Boston was realized to-day as he herded his Stanley Cup holders back to Toronto for the remainder of the National Hockey League championship series with the Bruins. Toronto evened the three-of-five series at one game each with a brilliant 1 to 0 overtime victory in the second game yesterday evening.

Toronto is the lone survivor of the League's Canadian section in Stanley Cup play. Montreal Maroons, cumbered at Detroit, 3 to 2, after they had wiped out the 2 to 0 lead gained by Red Wings in the first game at Montreal. The effort capped their power and Detroit came back with three goals to take the round, 5 to 2.

Canadiens twice fought within one of the three-goal leads established by the New York Rangers in the first game, but lacked the stamina to hold the pace and were eliminated by the 3 to 2 tie and a 2 to 2 score on the third.

Boston saw its second overtime battle in three days as the Bruins and Leafs battled through three scoreless periods and fifteen minutes of overtime before Harvey Jackson shot home the game-winning goal in the sixteenth minute of sudden death overtime. A penalty by George Owen, Boston defenseman, paved the way.

Boston, March 29.—After four years of failures, the Toronto Maple Leafs yesterday evening overcame their Boston Garden jinx and poked home a sudden-death goal to defeat the Boston Bruins 1 to 0 and deadlock the National Hockey League championship playoff at one game all.

After fifteen minutes of sudden-death play, the Leafs, who had been playing air-tight hockey throughout the break when George Owen was penalized for tripping Bill Thomas in the Bruins zone. The Boston defenseman had barely time to set himself in the box when Thomas beat Art Chapman to the puck on a faceoff beside the Boston cage. Five Leafs in enemy territory when the rubber was played and hit the goalie's leg.

Jackman's winning goal resulted from the only scoring chance that came the Leafs' way in the seventy-five minutes and three seconds of rugged defensive play. The Bruins had a glorious opportunity in the second period, and at least two more in the third.

Frank Shandley's Beavers will make their final bid for the British Columbia intermediate A boys' basketball championship at the Victoria High School gym to-night when they meet Penticton, interior champions, in a sudden-death game to decide the provincial titleholders. In an exhibition game starting at 7.30 o'clock, Dad's Cookies, provincial senior A women's champs, will meet the Cardinals. After two weeks of strenuous practice under the watchful eyes of their two coaches, Harold Shepherd and Les Gordon, members of the Beavers, are in first-class shape for the crucial engagement. The Beavers are one of the finest intermediate aggregations ever developed in the city. Last year they lost the provincial title to the Highway Fur, New Westminster, after a heart-breaking final. The Beavers defeated Penticton in the first round of the playoffs, 24 to 22.

Just what players the Beavers will start is not known. However, it is expected that Tubman and Preston will open as guards, with George Robertson, Ian McDonald and Jack Fraser as forwards. Gordon Moore, Hinkle and Goldsmith will also be available and may even be among the starters.

Leading Women Golfers Differ Over Capabilities of Fair Sex

Maureen Orcutt Says They Are Equal; Diana Fishwick Objects

New York, March 29.—It may do nothing more than revive an ancient debate, but it was a coincidence to-day that while Diana Fishwick, young British golf star, remarked in Philadelphia it was an "impossibility" for feminine players to be as good as the men, Maureen Orcutt told friends in Richmond: "Bobby Jones is the only man in the game I don't feel I could meet on equal grounds."

Although Miss Orcutt generously included others of the United States top flight women golfers in her sweeping remark, which presumably did not involve a challenge to the professional forces of men's golf, the fact is that the weight of evidence is almost all on the masculine side.

It has been generally agreed for years by golfing experts, including Jones, that the only woman player who could mingle on anything like even competitive terms with men is Joyce Wethered, the retired British champion. Looking the length with the long shots, which Miss Fishwick describes as the chief masculine advantage, Miss Wethered's brilliantly accurate short game enabled her repeatedly to beat top flight men amateurs, including her brother, Roger Wethered, who held the British amateur title.

Miss Wethered's game, for golfing style as well as effectiveness, often is compared with that of Harry Vardon and Jones, but there has never been the slightest belief that she or any other woman has ever been competitive with the men's professionals over championship distances.

Yesterday evening White tossed them to 762, which will boost this figure to 792.

JOE KIRKWOOD OUT IN FRONT

Veteran Trick-shot Artist Has Two Brilliant Rounds in Pinehurst Golf

Pinehurst, N.C., March 29.—Goldsmith's "old guard" is on the war path again. Last week Walter Haggen put the youngsters in their place by copying the $2,500 Charleston open. The week before that he was home first at Jacksonville. This week, Joe Kirkwood, another grizzled campaigner and once Hagen's touring partner, is furnishing the fireworks.

The half-way mark in the north and south open, one of the richest of the winter stakes, found Kirkwood out in front in the second round with a four-stroke margin.

Two brilliant sub-par rounds of 68 and 67 gave Kirkwood a half-way total of 135, and he is on the $1,200 first money prize.

STEWART'S SCORE GIVES BOYS' CENTRAL VICTORY

Defeat Oaklands 3 to 0 in Final For City Schools Senior Rugby Championship; Eighth Successive Victory For Centrals

A lone try fifteen minutes from the start by Stewart, smart three-quarter for Boys' Central School, gave his team a 3 to 0 victory over Oaklands in the final for the senior city schools rugby championship at the Athletic Park yesterday. It was Central's eighth successive triumph in the play-off.

Ground conditions were adverse, but the young players showed plenty of fight throughout the encounter. Oaklands pressed at the opening, but failed to maintain pressure after the first few minutes when the Central boys used their scrum in dribbling attacks. Smart work by Oaklands' back prevented a score. Terry Carlow, full-

Heeney Gets Paltry $200

New York, March 29.—In 1928 Tom Heeney, battler from New Zealand, received $105,000 for boxing Gene Tunney at the Yankee Stadium in what was Tunney's last defence of the heavyweight title.

Monday night "Auld Tamas," grizzled and slow, took a terrific beating from young Stanley Forde in ten rounds at the little St. Nicholas fight club and received just $200.

Heeney is reputed to have lost in Wall Street speculation the money he received in his big fights five years ago.

MONTREAL MAROONS AND CANADIENS ARE OUT OF COMPETITION

Overtime period—1, Toronto, Jackson (Thoms-Day), 15.03. Penalty: Owen.

Detroit, March 29.—Flashing from behind after their opponents had scored two quick goals in the second period, Detroit's amazing Red Wings ousted the big Maroon team from Montreal from the Stanley Cup hockey play-offs yesterday evening, winning the deciding contest, 3 to 2. A capacity crowd of 14,500 saw Detroit take the round, 5 to 2, and go into the Stanley Cup semi-finals of the league play-offs against New York Rangers.

Maroons, trailing by a 2 to 0 Red Wing victory, in Montreal, last Saturday night, put on their power plays for sixty minutes, ripping up and down the ice of Olympia arena to bowl over the frantic Detroit defence. A scoreless first period passed, then Hooley Smith, Maroon star centre, blasted his way through to take Conacher's pass and beat John Rose Roach, ace Detroit goalie. Two minutes later, Smith hooked a pass from Wentworth to beat Roach again, and the Maroons appeared headed for victory.

But the Wings, led by Herbie Lewis, fleet wingman, came back to score late in the second period, Lewis taking a double pass from Frank Carson and Johnny Sorrell. Then three minutes after the third period opened, Eddie Goodfellow beat Andy Kerr in the Maroon nets with a "heartbreak goal," a shot from near the blue line that burned its way between Kerr's arm and side for a score.

Late in the period, while the Maroons were frantically trying to bring back the lead, Detroit's Gordie Howe, a shot from near the blue line that burned its way between Kerr's arm and side for a score.

Quakers and Fort William in Bitter Duel in Western Hockey Play-down

Third Game in Winnipeg Tomorrow Night; Winner Meets Trail on Coast

Fort William, March 29.—The western Canada Allan Cup hockey semi-finals between Fort William and Saskatoon will start anew in Winnipeg tomorrow night, when the two teams take the ice in the third game of a total-goal series that has so far resulted in scoreless draws.

The Thunder Bay and Saskatchewan champions raced through an hour and a half of furious hockey here yesterday evening, but none of the numerous shots hurled at Cooney Wood in the Quakers' nets and at Gordie Macquill in the home goal found their mark.

Winners of the series meet Trail Smoke-eaters, champions of British Columbia, in the Western Canada finals at Vancouver, April 3 and 5.

Ottawa, March 29.—Newmarket Juniors, champions of the Ontario Hockey Association, eliminated Ottawa Shamrocks from the Memorial Cup playdowns here yesterday evening, trimming the capital's representatives 3 to 0 in the second game of their series and taking a margin of 4 to 0 on the round. The Redmen had meted out a 1 to 0 defeat to the Ottawa and district titleholders in the opening match of their series in Toronto, and pre-empted their right to meet Montreal Royals in the eastern Canadian finals with a convincing display of sharpshooting yesterday evening.

A crowd of close to 8,500 fans packed the rink and roared encouragement to the young Ottawa squad, but their well-meant efforts in the closing stages were smothered by a blanket of hacking sticks around the centre area, shut off by the sound of defence combination of "Silver" Doran, and Ken Vail.

Montreal, March 29.—Montreal junior Royals will resume their quest for the Memorial Cup, which no local team has ever won, when they tackle Newmarket's vaunted Redmen here tomorrow night in the first of a two-game, total-goal round for the Eastern Canada title.

Ontario and Quebec juniors will finish their two-game series at Toronto on Saturday, the winner meeting either Regina Pats or Brandon Braves on Sunday, April 3 and 5, and, if necessary, April 7, at Toronto.

First period—No score. Penalties: Haynes, Goodfellow, Noble.

Second period—1, Maroons, Smith (Conacher), 10:06; 2, Maroons, Smith (Wentworth), 12:08; 3, Detroit, Lewis (Carson, Sorrell), 19:51. Penalties: Duguid, Emma, Northcott, 2.

Third period—4, Detroit, Goodfellow, 3:27; 5, Detroit, Gallagher, 15:54. Penalties: Goodfellow, Trotter, Sorrell, Smith.

Montreal, March 29.—Lester Patrick's New York Rangers edged the Montreal Canadiens out of the Stanley Cup hockey series by holding the Flying Frenchmen to a 3 to 2 tie here yesterday. Rangers captured the round 8 to 5, and qualified to meet Detroit Red Wings in the second round.

The Canadiens went down fighting gamely against elimination, facing a three-goal deficit following a 5 to 2 defeat in New York in the first game, Sunday, the red shirts flashed a magnificent attack at the start of the game yesterday evening and rattled three goals into the Rangers' net.

Rangers were back checking closely and fought back desperately. As Canadiens tired, Rangers forged ahead, and one by one, ran in three goals. As Canadiens flashed their final spark with five forwards on the ice, a goal down and five minutes to go, Cecil Dillon drilled two goals past Hainsworth and guaranteed Rangers a place in the next round.

Summary

First period—1, Canadiens, Larocelle (Hart), 4:50; 2, Canadiens, Joliat (Gagnon), 7:50; 3, Rangers, Somers (Keeling), 11:30. Penalties: Lepine, Heller, Johnson.

Edmonton Eskimos Western Champions

Defeat Calgary Tigers 2 to 1 in Overtime to Capture W.C.H.L. Title

Earl Robertson and "Red" McCusker, Two Goalies, Are Stars of Series

Edmonton, March 29.—Honors of the Calgary Tiger—Edmonton Eskimo battle giving the Eskimos the Western Canada Professional Hockey League championship today were split between youthful Earl Robertson, guardian of the Esk net, and a veteran, "Red" McCusker, goalie of the Tigers.

The flash and flare of defence and forwards was outshone by the brilliance of the goalies in the six-game series ended here yesterday evening when Edmonton scored a 2 to 1 overtime win. Each came forward to stop countless pucks and brighten new prospects of victory.

Opposing marksmen beat each goalie nine times, but Earl became the winning guardian through letting the Tigers do most of their scoring in one game, while McCusker, unluckily, spread the counters to give the Eskis three wins and the honors.

Lloyd Turner, manager of the Tigers, owned them both and Robertson was banded to "Duke" Keats just at the opening of the season. The folk up here are convinced Turner's stringers are still wrapped around Robertson, now on the march that may take him into big league play.

PLAYED FOR VICTORIA

Up from the corner-lot hockey in the Queen City of Saskatchewan, Robertson son broke in with Regina junior Falcons, and when eighteen years old became goalie for Victoria in the Pacific Coast League. He went to Hollywood in the California League when the Coast circuit disbanded and helped the club win the 1932-33 title. Robertson shifted his 165 pounds too quickly to be easy to beat.

McCusker, too, began his hockey career in Regina, and way back in the war days he guarded the nets for Regina's 68th Battalion team. He saw service with the Regina Vics in amateur senior ranks, and when Wes Champ organized the Regina Capitals in the original western pro circuit McCusker joined the clan. He went to Chicago Black Hawks in the National Hockey League when the western loop broke up and later to St. Paul. He was the all-star goalie of the American Association when he played with Tulsa Oilers.

First period—1, Edmonton, Gagne (Johnson), 12:20. Penalties: None.

Second period—2, Calgary, Heard, 8:30. Penalties: Heard, Kenny.

Third period—No score. Penalties: Kenny, Harris.

Overtime period—3, Edmonton, Gagne (Keats), 4:00. Penalties: None.

DOUBLE TAXES HELD OBSTACLE

Overlapping Levies Impede World Trade, League of Nations Body Finds

For Better World Tax Code Efforts Now Directed, German Member Says

New York, March 29.—The development of principles of international law to avoid double taxation as an obstacle to world trade was urged by Dr. Herbert Dorn of Munich, chairman of the fiscal subcommittee of the League of Nations, at a luncheon of welcome to its members in the Hotel Waldorf Astoria, lunched by the American section of the International Chamber of Commerce, at whose invitation the subcommittee is visiting the United States.

"Although the work of the fiscal committee has already given concrete results in the form of bilateral treaties, double taxation still exists on a large scale," declared Dr. Dorn, who is president of the German Supreme Court of Finance. "Every effort should be made to develop principles and methods in national and international law to avoid it in an adequate and practical manner and to promote a greater sense of mutual confidence between the fiscal authorities and the taxpayers."

Thomas J. Watson, president of the International Business Machines Corporation, who presided, expressed hope that the fiscal committee would find methods of conducting international trade on a more favorable basis. Other speakers were Willis H. Booth, vice-president of the Guaranty Trust Company, and William S. Elliott, general counsel for the International Harvester Company.

The fiscal subcommittee, which arrived from Europe on Friday, will conduct private hearings at the Social Science Research Bureau. They will interview various business leaders in their appraisal of taxation methods in this country and will visit Washington before returning to Geneva within a fortnight. The committee has been studying taxation data gathered from thirty-five countries under a grant of the Rockefeller Foundation.

The group is composed of Hans Blum of Bern, director of the Federal Administration of Taxes in Switzerland; Sir Percy Thompson, deputy chairman of the Board of Inland Revenue of the United Kingdom; Herve Le Roy, Controller of the French Ministry of Finance; H. Boisot, of Geneva and Paul Depierre, secretary.

Music Not Sweet To All Horses' Ears

By AL DEMAREE

Part of the thoroughbred's temperament can be attributed to close breeding and this temperament breaks out in unusual ways at times. Music often gets on the nerves of some nags.

A horse named Sidney hopped a fence at Arlington Park last summer while the starter was trying to line up a field in the chute at the head of the back stretch, and bolted through an apple orchard for fully five miles.

A handler said later that the horse had caught strains of jazz music from the Arlington loud speaker and simply could not stand it and wanted to get out of hearing of the crooner. Other thoroughbreds love music. They love their sweet chords so much that they are never so happy as when they have a ball in their stall and keep it tinkling throughout the day by judding it with their noses. St. Jim, owned by G. R. Allen, is an example of a horse with an ear for music.

Canadian Press
Winnipeg, March 29.—Despite firmness at Liverpool, trading on the grain exchange idled indifferently through the session to-day and at the close wheat futures prices were 1/2 to 3/4 cents lower.

May closed at 49 1/2, July 50 1/2, and October 52 1/2.

Advances established at the high points on an upward trend that was influenced by strength at Chicago were wiped out by scattered selling and export business in Canadian wheat reported overnight was disappointing.

Action in cash wheat and coarse grain markets was a duplication of yesterday's dull trading.

In sympathy with North American strength yesterday and in the absence of Argentine selling, Liverpool quotations scored fractional gains. Buenos Aires prices tended lower.

A Mother's Duty
To Her Daughter

No Mother's Job Is Finished When She Has Fed Her Daughter Vitamins and Seen to Her Morals; It Is Her Duty Also to Develop in Her the Tact and Graciousness Which Insure a Woman's Success

IT IS JUST as much a mother's duty to try to make her daughter a successful woman as it is to make her a good one. It isn't enough to see that little Mary eats her spinach and gets the proper vitamins and is sent to school and has moral principles drilled into her. It is mother's business also to develop in her those graces and charms and the tact and suavity which are so potent in carrying a woman to the goal of her desires.

It is every mother's duty to help her daughter to make the most of herself, and particularly in this the case when the daughter happens to be an ugly duckling. Yet few mothers ever bother to do this. If Mamma's Fairy Godmother bestowed upon her a peaches-and-cream complexion and naturally wavy hair, mother rejoices and thanks Heaven for its mercies. But if Sally wasn't around when good looks were handed out, mother may secretly wring her hands over the catastrophe, but she doesn't do anything about it.

She doesn't begin helping Sally by the time she is out of the cradle to outfit Nature and build up a line of attractions that are just as potent as beauty. She doesn't teach Sally that no woman need be as homely as God made her, or that when a plain woman is fascinating she is the most fascinating woman on earth. And, moreover, her charms are indestructible because they are the kind that are proof against the ravages of time.

No woman has a right to let a little girl grow up with bad teeth, an ugly mouth or a hideous nose. In these days of good dentists and plastic surgeons. Making a figure over is a matter of diet that is in mother's hands, so is teaching a girl how to dress so as to turn the spotlight on her good points and camouflage her defects. And for the rest, the beauty shop is the modern miracle worker.

Also, a mother should teach her homely daughter that inasmuch as she is shy on puerility she has to be long on other attractions, and that if she has these she can snap her fingers at the beautiful but dumb. So mother should see to it that plain Jane learns to be a superlative dancer, and that assures her of never being a wallflower at a party. Also, she sees that Jane acquires a game of bridge that makes her one of those young women whom hostesses always think of when giving a week-end party. And she drags it into Jane's youthful consciousness that while a living picture may be snooty, a chrome must always wear an amiable and pleasing expression.

Furthermore, she makes Jane realize the importance of cultivating her mind and acquiring an interesting and entertaining conversational line. For people will put up with dullness for a time in a girl who is a feast to the eyes, but they will not endure being bored by one who is nothing to look at. But any bright, vivacious, amusing talker can eat a halo about herself that will completely obscure her looks.

A girl who knows how to dress, who knows how to dance and play games, who is good at sports, who is amiable and tactful, who can put men at their ease and entertain them, is independent of mere beauty. And all these charms her mother can give her if she will only teach her to make the most of herself.

Of course, it is every mother's duty to have her daughter taught some way of making a living. This provides her against the necessity of marrying for a meal ticket or of marrying for an occupation and because she is bored running around to parties. But it is especially important that the girl who has no sex attraction for men—and that manifests itself almost in the kindergarten—should acquire some gainful occupation into which she can throw her energies and which will furnish her not only with a support, but give her a real thrilling interest in life. Spinsterhood is a curse, or a pleasant and agreeable condition in life, according to whether a woman has enough money to be financially independent and something she is keen about doing or not.

It is also a mother's duty to help her daughter get married. A lot of contumely has been thrown on the managing mamma, but if we concede that a good husband is the greatest blessing that can befall a woman, why is it not a mother's place to do her best to secure this good thing for her child? Now every mother is either a come-on or a handicap to her daughter and has more than somewhat to do with not only the girl marrying at all, but the kind of man she marries.

A mother can help her daughter to popularity, and that eventually leads to marriage, by making her home so attractive that young men like to come to it. She can put welcome on the doormat, so to speak. She can feed the brutes, and turn on the radio, and make the whole atmosphere gay and delightful and thus lure a young man's thoughts toward domesticity. Or she can do the reverse and drive every possible suitor away from her daughter.

And mothers can help their daughter get the right sort of husbands by keeping the wrong sort away. After all, girls generally marry the boys they are thrown with, and the wise mother doesn't give the run of her house to handsome drunkards nor fascinating loafers and ne'er-do-wells.

Half the disastrous marriages that take place could have been averted if only mother hadn't been asleep at the switch.

Of course, all this involves much labor and interferes terribly with one's bridge, but in the end it pays.

In the Endless Caverns

Judging by the names given to parts of the Endless Caverns of Virginia, we might decide that they contain a large portion of the world's wonders.

Inside the endless caverns

One place inside the caverns is known as "Grand Canyon," another as "Fountain of Youth," and still another as "The Mountain of Youth."

Poor old Ponce de Leon failed when he tried to find a "fountain of youth" in Florida; but if he could come back to earth he might see an object with the name at least. It is a "stalactite" from which water trickles down, day and night.

Water from rains or melted snow seeps into the ground and finds cracks in the rocks. As years pass, water flowing underground cuts passageways in the rocks. Instead of a crack between rocks, there may come to be a large chamber or cave.

Limestone rocks are well-fitted for underground water; and thousands of limestone caves have been located in different parts of the earth.

After a cave is formed, water is likely to trickle from the roof or ceiling. Falling drops leave bits of limestone behind as they tumble into the caves. Thus the "stalactites" are formed. They usually have the form of an icicle, but not always.

In one part of Endless Caverns, limestone bits have formed into what is known as the Snowdrift. Elsewhere, we find Neptune's Throne, Theatre Curtain and Elephant Rock. The last has formations which suggest the heads and trunks of elephants.

The guide may tell you that Apartment House Radiator was so named because of its shape and "because it is cold and brown like a radiator in an apartment house."

One passage in the caverns is called Lovers' Lane; and another is known as Pat Man's Miery, because it is narrow. Still other objects in the caves are named the Mitten, Sunset Falls, Hindu Temple, the Milky Way and Solomon's Temple.

Places people visit are fairly dry, but there is one spot where you can look through a hole in the floor and see an

TO END AGITATION

Santiago, Chile, March 29 (Associated Press)—President Arturo Alessandri notified the Governor of Antofagasta province to-day that the federal government was prepared to ask congressional authority to establish a state of siege there unless agitation among the unemployed was quieted. The President described as "insolent and threatening" several petitions telegraphed by organizations of unemployed who outlined proposals for alleviating conditions in northern Chile.
